Homecoming for Marine from heavily-hit Lima Company

The fleet of sirens wailing through Andover caused people to stop, stare and wonder if a celebrity was in town.

When the rolling caravan came to a halt at 33 Summer St. last Friday, the doors of a white limousine opened and Matthew Thresher, 29, jumped into the arms of family for the first time since his seven-month tour of duty in Iraq.

News of the unit's tragedy was widely publicized in the media. With her youngest son embroiled in combat thousands of miles away, and reports of heavy casualties, Debbie Rutter spent many sleepless nights waiting, wondering and praying for his safe return.

Law looks to force pharmacists to report their errors

By Greta Cuyler

Edward Barrett picked up his regular prescription at Brooks Pharmacy last year, went home and took the pills as his doctor ordered.

Three pills, three times a day. Three days later, the Andover resident was in the hospital, confused, scared and hooked up to a machine to help regulate his heartbeat. In a pharmacy mix-up, Barrett claims, he had been given someone else's prescription.

He is now championing legislation sponsored by state Sen. Sue Tucker to require walk-in pharmacies, like Brooks, to report any mistakes.

Hospitals are currently required by law to report dispensing errors that "result in serious injury or harm" to the state Department of Public Health. Other pharmacies have a purely voluntary reporting system. Barrett is trying to hold all pharmacies to the same reporting standards.

"Pharmacies do not have a free pass," said Barrett.

The pills that Barrett ingested last December were the same size, color and shape of his regular medication. The name on the refill, though not Barrett's, was similar.

"If you are a multi-million dollar pharmacy, admit your mistakes," said Barrett. He said he asked Brooks to report the mistake that put him in the hospital, but it has not.

Barrett got his prescription at the Brooks in North Reading, where he had been a customer for 26 years. He said the pharmacist called him to apologize for the incident, but it did not

Police hunt repeat bank robber

Main Street Savings Bank hit on Tuesday

By Rita Savard

Police Wednesday were searching for a bank robber who fled on foot with several hundred dollars in cash after holding up the Savings Bank on Main Street Tuesday.

Police believe the man is a serial bank robber involved in other Massachusetts heists.

As soon as the man entered the bank, one of the tellers recognized his face, police said. Just last week, the Andover bank had received a photo fax of the suspect that was taken from a Savings Bank robbery in Wakefield on Saturday, Oct. 22.

The suspect, who police described as a "baby-faced" white male, 6-foot tall, wearing a dark colored jacket, wire-rimmed glasses and a Red Sox baseball cap, entered the bank at approximately 3:55 p.m., and handed a note to a bank teller demanding cash.

The man gave the teller a note written in pencil, and asked for the note back, so it was not left behind.

The man did not appear to have any weapons, police said. They declined to report the exact amount of money stolen from the bank.

But late Tuesday night, police said they were hopeful of making a quick arrest.

"We have a pretty good idea who this is," said Police Sgt. Don Pattullo. "Other departments have also been working on similar cases. It appears the same suspect is wanted for bank robberies in Arlington, Belmont, Winchester, Wakefield and Lincoln."

Pattullo said the robber has stolen a few hundred dollars at each location.

"He'd be better off robbing a lemonade stand in the summer," said Pattullo.

Pattullo said early Wednesday morning, police would obtain an arrest warrant at Lawrence District Court and then drive to an undisclosed location where they believe the suspect is staying.

Sewer may sink autistic school

Selectmen eye strictly following vote of Town Meeting

By Greta Cuyler

Rita Gardner, executive director for Melmark New England, had tears in her eyes after a meeting with selectmen Tuesday night.

There was little progress between selectmen and Melmark — a school for autistic children — at a selectmen's subcommittee meeting to iron out a sewer agreement to bring the school to River Road.

Nearly three years after Melmark decided to try to move to Andover, its future in town remains up in air.

"By not allowing us to connect to sewer, who does that benefit?" asked Gardner. "The only thing it has punished is the children who need services." The school currently operates out of overcrowded space in Woburn. The school has 77 students now, but could accommodate up to 110 in the new Andover space after renovations are complete.

Melmark has an agreement to purchase the building known as the Christian Formation Center at 459 River Road.

Voters at 2004 Annual Town Meeting gave selectmen the authority to enter into an inter-municipal sewer agreement with Lowell and Tewksbury to allow development at 459 River Road. But selectmen believe voters insisted that two restrictions be placed on the Franciscan Center, the Christian Formation Center and Ed Doherty, the Tewksbury developer with plans to put in a 10-lot subdivision next door: restrictions on the number of gallons of water each facility could use, and a property deed restriction.

Major said what Melmark is asking selectmen to do is a "drastic change" and agreeing to it would be unfair to Town Meeting's vote.

Melmark believes the deed restriction applied only to the Christian Formation Center that would become the Melmark school, a comment their lawyer made at 2004 Town Meeting without opposition.

Progress on the sewer agreement stalled about a month ago when it became clear the Franciscans were unwilling to allow a deed restriction on their property. The Franciscans, although invited, did not show up at Tuesday's meeting. "The Franciscans have offered not to deal with the town further on this issue," said Ray Murphy, the attorney representing Melmark.

Melmark officials had hoped selectmen would approve agreement for just the Melmark site and the 10-lot subdivision, covering 22 of the approximately 80 acres at 459 River Road.

Instead, selectmen offered Melmark two options at Tuesday's meeting: install a new septic system or call a Special Town Meeting to vote on bringing sewer to only the Christian Formation Center and the 10-lot subdivision.

Neither option seemed to appeal to Melmark. Gardner said the school does intensive toilet training with its students, up to age 20, and each child can make 32 trips to the bathroom per day, a strain on any type of possible septic system. School representatives say they are under too much time pressure to call a Special Town Meeting without the full support of the Board of Selectmen.

Selectmen Brian Major told Melmark representatives that he personally would not support a sewer agreement for the school at a Special Town Meeting. Selectmen John Hess and Alex Vispoli said they did not know how they might vote.

School representatives have suggested that selectmen have the latitude to adjust the 2004 Town Meeting vote at their discretion. At a meeting on Oct. 18, Town Counsel Tom Urbels told selectmen the language of the Town Meeting vote reads in part, "the selectmen are authorized, but not required, to accept such restrictions on terms and conditions they deem in the best interest of the town."

Melmark told town officials this week it may walk away from the Andover site if there is no imminent solution to the current impasse. They suggest that having deed restrictions on two of the three lots at 459 River Road is better than potentially having none.

"If it's the intent of the town of Andover to take the intent of 40B out of the parcels, isn't it better to take restrictions on (the 10-lot subdivision) and (Christian Formation Center)?" asked Peter Troy, Melmark's vice president of operations.

The deed restriction in question would mandate that no Ch. 40B affordable housing permits be allowed on any of the properties. Under Ch. 40B, also known as the "anti-snob zoning" law, developers can more easily appeal town zoning decisions to the state if a town has less than 10 percent affordable housing units. Andover is currently above the 10-percent threshold. However, when the issue came before Town Meeting in 2004, Andover was not and River Road neighbors were fighting AvalonBay, a large affordable housing project that tried to tie into a sewer line that residents approved to help the Sisters of St. Clare on River Road. Town officials appear wary of a similar situation as a result of bringing sewer to the Melmark site.

PHILLIPS ACADEMY

'A' burning tradition up in smoke

By Courtney Fiske
What's Up contributor

Phillips Academy administrators will continue to ban a more than 50-year-old tradition known as the burning of the "A," despite a student body effort to resurrect the ceremony.

The burning ritual was first banned by the dean of students' office four years ago. A campaign this year to reinstate the burning of the "A" ended Monday afternoon, Halloween, after a lengthy discussion between the chief student supporter and the dean of students.

The orientation-week burning ceremony originated from the friendly, but deep, rivalry between Phillips Andover and its sister school, Phillips Exeter.

While still in effect, the ritual began with school spirit leaders, named Blue Keys, and prefects racing down dorm hallways, warning students of an impending invasion of the dreaded "Exies." Aroused from sleep by the shouts and furious knocks on their doors, new students were led by the Blue Keys to an area of campus, the Pine Knoll Circle. A group of seniors, clad in black, carried a supposedly captured "Exie," covered in red war paint, on their shoulders into the center of the green. Here, the Blue Keys doused a giant wooden "A," formed from 2x4s, with gasoline, and lit it on fire, with officers from public safety on hand to monitor safety. To top off the night, Gunga, the school mascot, rode in on a motorcycle.

In 2002, the administration banned the tradition, which had been in existence since the 1950s. The impetus for the decision came from the concerns of some parents and faculty, who believed the ceremony was too closely reminiscent of the burning of crosses in the South by the Klu Klux Klan. Concerns about fire hazards also influenced the verdict. The burning of the "A" was just one casualty of a larger plan by the administration to change the focus of orientation from the Blue Keys and toward the incoming students.

But in the final weeks of September of this school year, Student Council member Yoni Gruskin, class of 2007, kicked off a campaign to revive the longstanding ritual.

His goal, as stated in the school newspaper, the Phillipian, was "not only to bring back this... universally-loved tradition, but [to] open up a dialogue with the administration [to make members] in the future justify their decisions, and to consult, or even inform, the various intellectual student bodies on campus before making such decisions." Gruskin began by circulating a petition, with an aim of presenting it to Dean of Students Maryls Edwards. In just a week, he had gathered the signatures of more than 800 students, more than three quarters of the student body. Supporters also sold nearly 150 T-shirts in the school dining hall, to raise further awareness for his cause.

By the beginning of October, the entire campus was abuzz with talk about the student-led effort. Capitalizing on the popularity of the issue, the school's debate club held a well-attended forum to allow students and faculty to voice their own opinions. The Phillipian published several commentaries about the burning of the "A," all in favor of bringing back the tradition. In the last week of October, the student council held a schoolwide referendum on the controversial issue. The results: 92 percent of people were in favor of restoring the ceremony, and only 8 percent were against it.

Courtney Fiske is an Andover resident and student at Phillips Academy.

New law on drugs sought

■ DRUG ERROR

Society supports Barrett's initiative and wrote in support of the proposed legislation. "Recent statutory changes have allowed pharmacy technicians with minimal training and education to fill patient prescriptions and serve as the direct contact point for patients seeking professional services in pharmacies," the testimony read in part.

A self-described "townie," Barrett has lived in Andover for the past 47 years. He attended Andover public schools and Merrimack College.

Barrett began working with Tucker on this issue at the beginning of this year. He testified before the state Elder Affairs Committee on Oct. 12, a committee chaired by Tucker. State Rep. Barbara L'Italien of Andover is also a member of the committee.

Bill 2098 is in committee on Beacon Hill, and if it survives, it will next go to the Healthcare Financing Committee, said a representative for Tucker's office. It could then go to the House Ways and Means Committee where the state Department of Public Health would be involved in doing a cost analysis of implementing the legislation.

"I don't think there's any cost too high where human lives are involved," said Barrett.

A spokesman for CVS/Pharmacy said the Rhode Island-based chain operates in 37 states and reports only what is required by state law. A call to Brooks Drug was not returned by Townsmen deadline.

Barrett has since changed pharmacy chains, but admits he's "still a little bit nervous" when he fills a prescription.

According to the state Board of Pharmacy, there have been 126 complaints concerning dispensing errors in 2005.

Fighting pneumonia

The Andover Board of Health, as part of its adult immunization program, is offering free vaccinations to protect seniors against what it calls "the very serious disease of bacterial or pneumococcal pneumonia."

Pneumococcal disease is an infectious disease that occurs in the elderly and people with weakened immune systems.

The Andover Health Department has scheduled two pneumonia vaccine clinics on Tuesday, Nov. 15, from 10 to 11:30 a.m., and Friday, Nov. 18 from 9 to 11:30 a.m., by appointment only with the public health nurse. Forum on lowering energy bills this winter

Andover's legislative delegation will host a public energy forum on Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Memorial Hall Library to address the expected high energy costs facing citizens this winter and to provide people with tips to lower their energy bills.

The forum will bring together representatives from National Grid and Bay State Gas. Representatives from the Greater Lawrence Community Action Council's Fuel Assistance program will also be in attendance.

"This is a great opportunity for anyone to come and learn of simple ways to lower those energy bills that we expect will be a lot higher this year," said Rep. Barry Finegold. "We have brought together experts from the energy fields who will provide some helpful tips to consumers." Finegold will join Rep. Barbara L'Italien and Sen. Sue Tucker as co-hosts of the forum.

Those interested in obtaining more information should call Finegold's office at 617-722-2676.

In other Statehouse news, Tucker presented legislation on Tuesday aimed at increasing wages for those who work with the mentally retarded.

Andover Lt. James Hashem exits the Savings Bank as police gathered information following a Tuesday afternoon robbery.

Savings Bank hit

BANK ROBBERY

Surveillance photos of the robber taken from cameras inside other banks he allegedly hit matched up with the image captured on video in the Savings Bank.

After exiting the building, tellers told police the suspect started walking south on Route 28 and turned down Punchard Avenue. About a dozen officers combed the area of Main Street and beyond looking for any clues to the man's whereabouts.

The Andover Police Crime Scene Unit, headed by Kevin Burke, dusted the bank for fingerprints and studied surveillance tapes.

Although the robber was able to slip under police radar Tuesday, Pattullo said his time is running out.

"We put together a photo array of the suspect we think is involved in this process," Pattullo said. "We will find him, there's no doubt about that."

'Tree City' may soon have more stumps

To solve power outages, power company looks to chop down trees

By Greta Cuyler

National Grid might soon chop down nearly 200 trees to combat frequent and prolonged power outages in town. Power company arborists have been tagging trees with red markers along eight miles of roadway.

The news is not welcomed by all.

"When you come into Andover it says 'Tree City,'" said Paula Trespas, of Highland Road, "and now they are cutting them all down."

When it cuts down a tree, National Grid said it will leave the tree stump as low to the ground as possible, but it will not remove it.

National Grid is the new name for the old Massachusetts Electric Co.

Preliminary estimates are that 20 to 25 trees per mile will be cut down, said Kenneth Finch, project program manager for the power company's tree program, Augmented Clearance for Trees (ACT). That number is comparable to other cities and towns with tree problems that cause power outages, he said.

But not all communities can lay claim to being a "Tree City, USA," a source of pride for some residents and town officials alike.

Andover selectmen and State Sen. Sue Tucker have called on National Grid to figure out what is causing Andover to have repeated power outages and to fix the problem. National Grid has said that diseased trees and trees with overhanging limbs are part of the problem.

Andover is one of 25 Massachusetts communities with chronic tree problems that cause power outages, according to National Grid. So National Grid's project will look at dead, dying and diseased trees outside of the "routine maintenance zone," the area the utility legally prunes. Arborists will work with residents to identify and remove high-risk trees and overhanging limbs along two of the town's most-affected circuits.

One tree-cutting area begins at Tewksbury Street and follows Chester Street to Andover Street to Porter Road to South Main Street to Salem Street to Highland Road. The other route follows Dascomb Road to Central Lane to Phillips Street to Main Street to Chestnut Street to Bartlett Street to Whittier Street.

"I'm just wondering if this is some kind of overkill because we've had a problem with outages," said Trespas.

National Grid marked an 85-year-old oak tree as a potential hazard recently. The tree, located at the corner of Phillips and Abbot streets came crashing down in a storm last week and took down four telephone poles, knocking out power to a significant portion of town. That, said Joe Piantedosi, director of plant and facilities, is an example that the utility knows what it's doing in terms of addressing power outages in Andover.

Finch said the project is in the preplanning stages, identifying weak-structured and dying trees. Power company arborists will be discussing affected trees with property owners to come to agreements about which trees to cut. Trees on town property will be discussed at an upcoming public forum with town Tree Warden Randy Pickersgill.

Trespas is particularly concerned about a tree on her property that National Grid told her needed to come down, but which the family's own arborist said was perfectly healthy. Finch said if there are discrepancies between a homeowner and the utility that cannot be resolved, utility workers will not cut the tree.

The utility will be cutting down trees and hauling away the wood at no expense. Finch estimated that hiring a service to do the same work for a 75- to 80-year-old tree could cost a homeowner as much as $2,000.

Pickersgill said his department has a tree-stump grinding machine to use on the left-over stumps in town, but removing the stumps will not be a top priority. He will also work to replace the fallen trees over time, perhaps in more suitable locations.

The problem

Andover has had 95 power outages during the past 12 months, compared with 76 outages in Methuen, 68 outages in North Andover and 78 outages in Tewksbury. The entire Merrimack Valley, from Salisbury to Westford, has had 6,434 outages over the past year. An outage is defined as a loss of power affecting more than one building and lasting for at least two hours.

Fifty-one of Andover's total number of outages for the past year have been storm-related, said National Grid representatives. The remaining 44 outages in town over the past year were not storm related.

But Trespas said she lost count trying to tally the marked trees on Highland Avenue.

"Is that what's good for the town, to have a wholesale cutting of trees because they might fall on a power wire?" asked Trespas. "I'm uneasy about it."

TOWN TALK

Theo's decision

Speculation abounds about former General Manager Theo Epstein's abrupt decision to leave the Red Sox. One of the more unusual theories: Could the 31-year old be in love and less willing to devote himself around the clock to a ball club?

So, we went to the source — or at least as close as we could get. Larry Cancro of Andover is senior vice president of Fenway affairs and on the board of directors for Melmark New England. After a Melmark meeting, he was asked if there was any truth to the love-affair rumor.

Chuckling, he said, "No, it was all office politics."

Free phones give seniors 911 access

By Rita Savard

When Debbie Ryan began handing out used cellular phones to Andover seniors, she couldn't imagine the kind of impact it would make — until one person's life depended on it.

"One older gentleman could not afford an emergency response device and we gave him someone's old cell phone," said Ryan, an Andover Senior Center employee. "When he fell down in his apartment and was all alone, he used it to call 911. He called us later to say, 'Thank you.' That cell phone saved his life."

The man is just one of many seniors who have picked up used cell phones at the Andover Senior Center recently, said Ryan, who initiated the program matching old phones with people in need. Every cell phone sold in the United States is required to dial out emergency calls to 911 for free, even if the person who has the phone does not have a service contract. This feature, added Ryan, makes recycled phones a useful tool for giving seniors who cannot otherwise afford a cell phone access to emergency assistance.

Ryan said Andover's cell phone program was based on a similar program in Haverhill.

"It was a great idea, plain and simple," Ryan said. "People get rid of their cell phones all the time. For seniors who can't afford any other type of emergency-response device, the recycled phones provide another way to call for help and it's free."

In October, Ryan reported dispensing approximately 15 used phones to seniors. The escalating number of requests prompted her to send out a mass e-mail to all Andover employees last month, requesting them to drop off unwanted phones at the senior center.

Ryan said the senior center does request anyone donating a used cell to include a battery charger. Ryan personally tests all phones to make sure they are in working condition before seniors check them out.

"The phones can make a big difference in seniors' lives," Ryan said. "As in one man's case, it can come down to lying on the floor for hours until somebody discovers you, or getting immediate assistance."

The Andover Police Department has also become a drop off point for unwanted cells. Over the past three years, the department has collected about 100 phones, which are periodically distributed to the Essex County District Attorney's office, said Det. Mark Higginbottom.

Once in the hands of the DA, the phones are then distributed to senior programs, shelters and community organizations, helping people obtain access to emergency aid. The Andover Police Department's emergency cell phone program falls under the umbrella of Triad, a system which partners seniors with law enforcement agencies to enhance protective services.

"Communities have been very creative in ways they're making these cell phones available to seniors," said Debbie MacGregor, director of the community awareness and prevention team for the Essex County DA. "We leave it up to a community to determine how they want to use them."

MacGregor said some towns go around dispensing the phones to seniors if there have been major storm warnings, such as a blizzard or hurricane. Other communities have given phones out in the fall and then pick them up again in the spring.

"Some towns even have a check-out system," said MacGregor. "If a senior is planning to travel, they can pick up a phone and have it with them in case of an emergency."

Triad is still in the process of coming into Andover, but Higginbottom said Andover, in the future, might offer cell phone programs similar to those in other towns.

Ready for an upgrade, resident Suzanne SooHoo donated her seven-year old Nokia phone to the Andover Police Department last week.

"If I'm not going to use it anymore, I might as well give it to someone who can benefit from it," said SooHoo.

"I remember reading an article in a magazine about old equipment becoming a problem in landfills," added SooHoo. "There was a photo showing a mound of old cell phones that were found in the garbage. Giving someone the chance to call for help is a much better form of disposal."

Police: Tracking device saves time

New technology is helping the Andover Police Department more quickly find lost residents — such as those with Alzheimer's who wander off.

Police will demonstrate how a program called Project Lifesaver works at the Andover Senior Center on Friday at 9:30 a.m. Project Lifesaver is designed to assist in the tracking and locating of people with mental dysfunction disorders who become lost. These victims include the elderly and even the youngest in the community who are affected by Down's Syndrome and autism, said Police Det. Mark Higginbottom.

"This tracking device saves critical time so we can find lost family members and get them home safely," Higginbottom said.

The Project Lifesaver system works by utilizing a personalized radio transmitter that looks similar to a wrist watch. When anyone wearing the device wanders from home, police can track a signal emitted from the device that leads them straight to the victim. The system is capable of tracking a signal up to a mile by ground and five to nine miles by air.

The average time it takes for police to track a lost individual wearing the transmitter is 22 minutes, Higginbottom said.

The initial cost for the Project Lifesaver transmitter is $300, with a cost of around $25 to replace the battery when needed, Higginbottom said.

In addition to demonstrating Project Lifesaver, police will be taking photos of any seniors interested in obtaining a Senior ID.

"The IDs are especially handy for seniors who don't drive anymore and got rid of their old licenses," Higginbottom said. "It gives them the added benefit of having another form of ID."

Senior IDs are free.

Andover Recycling Committee

April 22 may ring a bell as "Earth Day" but few people realize that Nov. 15 is America Recycles Day.

To celebrate America Recycles Day, the Andover Recycling Committee has organized a townwide collection of used athletic shoes that will then be recycled into worthwhile products. Drop off bins for old athletic shoes will be located at each of Andover's public schools, the Children's Place at Phillips Academy, Pike School and the Andover School of Montessori. They will accept any brand of athletic shoe but no shoes with cleats, no dress shoes and no shoes containing metal. The shoes will be collected for two weeks, from Monday, Nov. 7 until Friday, Nov. 18, at each location. The donated shoes will be taken to Nike.

What does Nike do with them? Nike's Reuse-a-Shoe Program takes the shoes apart and sorts and grinds the various parts into three distinct types of material, each of which is used in different ways, such as to make new sports surfaces, like soccer and football fields, basketball and tennis courts, tracks and playground surfacing.

For instance, rubber from the outsoles go into baseball and soccer fields, as well as golf products, weight room flooring and running tracks.

BOOK REVIEW

Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them and Quidditch Through the Ages

BY J.K. ROWLING

Reviewed by John Chartier and James Caron

For fans of the Harry Potter novels, these two Hogwarts textbooks are a find – from the mind of one of the most famous authors in the world.

EVERY ONCE AND A WHILE we run across a book that has been around for quite some time, but we just have not had the chance to review yet. Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them and Quidditch Through the Ages by J.K. Rowling are two of these cases that are amazing – because they are penned by perhaps the most famous author in the world! However, this doesn't mean the books don't have the same amount of magic and charm as the Harry Potter series.

For diehard fans of Harry Potter, Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them and Quidditch Through the Ages are two of Hogwarts students' most well-known textbooks. Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them by "Newt Scamander" outlines almost every one of the mystical creatures that inhabit Rowling's wizarding world, from the frightening Aragog to the elusive Unicorn. Quidditch Through the Ages by Kennilworthy Whisp reads like a wildly funny history of the sport that every wizard in the world adores, outlining the timeline from its origins to the very first snitch.

Both "library books" are meant to give the reader a deeper understanding of Rowling's world, one that is both complex and simple at the same time, merely because it mirrors our own. They are creative and hilarious, especially the first few pages of each that outline the rules of library books, and the notes that adorn the margins. We especially enjoyed Dumbledore's introduction.

On the other hand, we felt that Quidditch Through the Ages could get fairly long-winded at times, but it never failed to pick up again with a joke or even just something that is so wildly outlandish that it makes the reader stop and read it over again, just to make sure he or she read it right the first time.

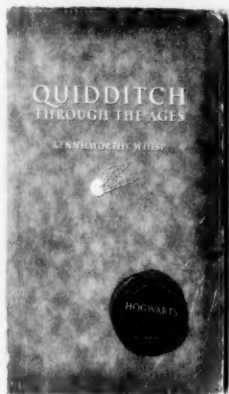

The most remarkable quality of these books is not their quality of storyline or creativity at all, but more simply their purpose. J. K. Rowling wrote these books in order to benefit the charity Comic Relief UK, which helps less-fortunate children around the world.

Isn't that reason enough to pick up one of these quick books? After all, the set retails for only $12.95.

These books are obviously best suited for those who like the Harry Potter novels, as those readers will pick up on jokes that others won't. They may also be enjoyed by readers who just like to read fantasy, and would like an interesting change of pace.

We give both Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them and Quidditch Through the Ages a rating of 8 out of 10. They are original, amusing books that only stand to enhance and deepen the world of Harry Potter that the world has come to love so much.

So hop on your broomstick or grab the next portkey to your local bookstore or library today and pick up your very own copies of Fantastic Beasts & Where to Find Them and Quidditch Through the Ages by J.K. Rowling today. But if you end up taking them out of the library, don't doodle on them absentmindedly – they'll start to beat you over the head! You'll understand later.

Changes to the West Middle School bus pick-up for students are designed to help keep students safe. Buses will park next to the school instead of in the bus loop. Traffic onto Shawsheen Road will be halted for nine minutes, protecting students boarding buses.

After-school traffic at West Middle to be blocked temporarily in new plan

For 9 minutes, school buses will bar traffic, creating a safe loading zone

By Rita Savard

WEST MIDDLE SCHOOL IS TRYING something new to block heavy traffic flow after school – big yellow buses.

Beginning next Monday, Nov. 7, to improve the safety of walkers heading toward the downtown on Shawsheen Road, the school will temporarily bar traffic from coming around the back and then the downtown side of West Middle School.

Starting Monday, from 2:05 to 2:14 p.m., buses will be parked on that side of West Middle School, barricading drivers from exiting onto Shawsheen Road from the Andover High School parking lots. Students parked in the Andover High School parking lot behind West Middle School often take this route. They can still take Moraine Street onto Red Spring Road during the minutes immediately after school.

Once the buses drive away with their passengers, the thoroughway onto Shawsheen Road will reopen.

"The amount of traffic and the speed of traffic coming from the high school is a big concern. The buses will stop the traffic and create a safe loading zone for students."

DENISE HOLMES,
WEST MIDDLE PRINCIPAL

The unnamed driveway, commonly referred to as the "Campus Road," is a one-way route allowing motorists access from the high school parking lots to Shawsheen Road. Currently, parents of West Middle students park along Campus Road to pick up kids after school. According to Safety Officer Robert Cronin, the heavily traveled driveway poses a tremendous safety hazard for students climbing into cars.

"The parent pick-up line causes students to get in on the street side of the vehicle," said Cronin. "As kids are coming out of (West Middle) and cars are driving by them, it makes for a very uncomfortable situation."

Parents now using Campus Road to pick up West Middle students will be redirected to the front of the building, inside the horseshoe driveway. While the traffic stop is anticipated to last only nine minutes each day, traffic from the high school will either have to wait or seek an alternate route. More than 300 students drive their cars to school.

Traffic in the school zone is heaviest for about 20 minutes in the morning, and about 15 minutes during the afternoon, according to Cronin, who said the experiment should be either a very steep or very short learning curve.

"We're looking at a nine-minute window where the roadway will be off limits," Cronin said. "Buses move into position promptly at 2:05 and they move out at exactly 2:14. They are always right on time."

Motorists will still have two access ways off school grounds. They can exit through Moraine Street onto Red Spring Road, or use the main high school driveway and exit onto Shawsheen Road.

Cronin said the nine-minute wait should not add any new problems to an already congested traffic situation.

According to police reports from September 2004 to present, 27 auto accidents have occurred on Shawsheen Road, with 10 during peak school traffic hours (from 7 to 8 in the morning and from 2:05 to 2:30 p.m. after school). Over the past year, eight accidents were reported on Red Spring Road, two taking place during the commuter rush.

Another plan being discussed would also prevent cars from entering the high school driveway from the West Middle School parking lot.

A Spanish class fashion show

Eighth-grade students at Wood Hill Middle School presented their annual fashion show on Monday. Barbies, action heroes, fairies, candies, and other fascinating creatures paraded their stuff before fellow students on Halloween. Small groups of students worked for weeks to design characters, their clothing and props. The culmination of numerous drafts and revisions was the

SCHOOL TALK

The Bancroft School Improvement Council will hold its next meeting Thursday, Nov. 10 at 8:15 a.m. in the teachers' lounge.

West Middle School is hosting a fundraiser on the same day, Nov. 10, at Fuddruckers on Route 114 in North Andover. Fuddruckers will give 10 percent of all sales to West Middle between 4 and 8 p.m. There will be raffles, as well, to add to the event.

Phillips Academy will hold an open house for prospective day students and their families from 2 to 3:30 p.m. this Sunday, Nov. 6, in the Cochran Chapel. The program will include a discussion of the application process, financial aid, life as a day student at Phillips, and life as a day student's parent. Campus tours will be available following the program.

Phillips Academy accepts new students in grades 9-12, as well as students interested in a postgraduate year. Students who live in the following towns and cities may apply to Phillips as day students:

Andover, Boxford, Bradford, Dra- cut, Georgetown, Groveland, Haver- hill, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynnfield, Methuen, Middleton, North Andover, North Reading, Reading, Tewksbury, Wilmington; and in New Hampshire: Atkinson, Pelham, Plaistow, Salem.

No reservation is needed for the open house, and dress is casual. For more information and directions, call the Phillips Academy Admission Office at 978-749-4050, or visit the Web site at www.andover.edu.

A "Turning 3 Workshop" led by facilitator Amy Young, a volunteer from the Federation for Children with Special Needs, will present special education information tonight, Thursday, Nov. 3 from 7 to 9.

Hosted by the Professional Center for Child Development's Early Intervention and Regional Consultation Programs, 32 Osgood St., the workshop is designed for parents of early-intervention children who may be moving on to special education programs in the public schools at age 3.

Parents will be offered the opportunity to begin or continue educating themselves about the transition process. Not all children in EI will use Special Education services, organizers said. If there is a possibility that a child will, this is the workshop to attend, they said. Throughout the evening, parents will collect information needed to work with the local school system and to empower parents to advocate for their children.

The Turning 3 Workshop covers basic rights in special education law; the transition from early intervention; the various choices, placements, programs and services available; eligibility requirements; and more.

Is half a loaf worth a bite?

TALK TO MOST ANYONE who knows Melmark New England – parents of autistic children, Andover educators, selectmen – and they will tell you they support having the school for autistic children in town.

The question is, can Melmark, the town and a private developer work together to help the school move to River Road as it hopes? Because it is going to take not only work from Melmark, but active support from selectmen to bring the school to town – while at the same time restricting the use of some land on River Road.

Selectmen are not in the business of development. But they do want to restrict how the land can be used, and have taken the unusual step of creating a subcommittee to work with Melmark. All involved deserve credit for trying to find a win-win solution. Selectmen offered two alternatives to Melmark on Tuesday – neither one popular with its representatives.

It's clear selectmen will not be able to restrict the use of as much land on River Road as they had hoped at 2004 Town Meeting. Back then, Town Meeting voted to allow selectmen to enter a sewer agreement with Tewksbury and Lowell to bring sewer to land owned by the Franciscans on River Road. The Franciscans' land would be divided into three parcels: a 10-home subdivision, the Christian Formation Center that would become the Melmark School, and the bulk of the land that would remain in the Franciscans' control. The deal came with restrictions on how the buildings could be used and on the number of gallons that could be used. It was also contingent, selectmen believe and the article says, on a deed restrictions that would bar a Ch. 40B affordable housing development from ever being built on the site.

This deed restriction might not even be enforceable, but it is a real sticking point, and seems the reason the Franciscan friars now want no part in any agreement. Minutes of Town Meeting show Melmark's lawyer did not realize the deed restriction applied to the friary, too. Meanwhile, selectmen want to honor the will of 2004 Town Meeting to restrict the entire site. They have resisted using their authority to strike a new deal exclusively with Melmark.

So, on Tuesday, a subcommittee of the selectmen offered two unappealing options for Melmark if it wants to move here: Build a new septic system, perhaps with the friars. Or call a Special Town Meeting, without any indication from selectmen that the selectmen will support the school at that meeting. Neither are ideal solutions, but Melmark must pursue them or offer a new solution of its own.

The septic option is particularly problematic. The reason this issue came to 2004 Town Meeting in the first place is because of a public health concern in the area. At 2004 Town Meeting, a planning official said, "new septic systems capable of accommodating two large buildings is probably not feasible." A new approach for septic was suggested this week, but it will take time to study, and then to engineer.

As for a Special Town Meeting, it seems reasonable that Melmark will need some indication of support from selectmen before it tries to call a meeting. It should draw up a sample Town Meeting article with restrictions on its use, and selectmen should indicate if the article is something they could recommend to residents. They can insist on all the restrictions they want on the Melmark and 10-lot subdivision sites.

If the town does nothing, the site likely will be developed at some point, and possibly used for a far less attractive purpose. If AvalonBay wins its lawsuit to build an affordable housing development down the road, it is possible the entire Franciscan land could be hooked to sewer anyway, without any restrictions.

A deal with Melmark and the developer for a 10-home subdivision will place restrictions on 22 acres. It's not the more-than-80 acres expected by the town in 2004. But half a loaf might be better than none. It's at least worth continued discussions.

Something wrong

Editor, Townsmen:

Something doesn't seem right to me about the construction at 3 Hazelwood Circle.

The homeowner is a lawyer, and his firm knows real estate law, yet he fails to cross all his Ts, and dot all his Is? When did lawyers, who are known for following legal procedures obsessively, begin to rely on verbal consent to begin questionable construction projects?

What about the wetlands impact? How about the negative impacts on the neighbors? And, since when is a two-story, 1,300-square-foot building called a "cabana"? It is amazing that this construction got as far as it did. The property should be restored to its original condition.

I don't know much about real estate, the law, or wetlands, but I do know that something isn't right at 3 Hazelwood Circle.

Web question

Mandatory reporting on drugs?

Last week's Andover Townsman Web-site question was: Andover High School recently rolled out a new Web site portal called Edline. Teachers post assignments, attendance/tardy records and grades. Parents and students also have access to the records. The site cost $3,000 and was paid for by the Parent Advisory Council. Do you think this was money well-spent?

24 people responded.

• 16, or 67 percent, said, "Absolutely. Parents can monitor kid's grades and attendance and that's great at an age that's not known for optimal communication with parents."

• 3, or 13 percent, said, "Yes, but parents shouldn't be forced to use Edline because kids need to learn responsibility at this age."

• 2, or 8 percent, said, "Not really. Do we really want to pursue this kind of Big Brother oversight in schools?"

• 2, or 8 percent, said, "No. I would rather the money have gone towards restoring an after-school club."

• 1, or 4 percent, said, "Other."

This week's Andover Townsman Web-site question is: Andover resident Edward Barrett has proposed legislation to require all walk-in pharmacies to report dispensing errors to the state. Currently error reporting is voluntary. Do you support Barrett's drug initiative?

• Of course, Barrett says he ended up in the hospital when he was given the wrong medication. We need pharmacies to triple-check before giving medication to customers and if mistakes happen, they should be reported.

• Yes, this legislation just makes sense. Walk-in pharmacies should not be held to a lower standard than hospital pharmacies. The playing field should be level.

• Yes, for another reason. • No. We have enough red tape and health-care costs without adding more bureaucracy to catalog such incidents.

• No. I've waited in line at the pharmacy enough times to know how busy the staff is. It's up to the patient to verify that the name on the bottle and the medication inside are correct.

• No, for another reason. • Other.

Without permits, case dismissed

Editor, Townsmen:

Further thoughts on the cabana/pool dispute – the Townsmen front page issue of Oct. 27.

A previous letter to the Townsmen by Joseph Valenti, an abutter to the cabana/pool property, stated that Dan Gibson, the owner of the property, happens to be a partner in a law firm with a division that specializes in real estate and construction. That statement leaves me almost speechless and in total wonderment that someone with an obvious legal background and Massachusetts real estate knowledge could consider such a course of action (i.e. verbal approvals or agreements).

Since Gibson did not apply and pay for the proper permits or notify abutters for the construction of the cabana and pool, then the issue of wetlands approvals through the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection has no merit and should not be a cause for subverting the town of Andover regarding permits and the proper application of the town of Andover's wetlands protection bylaws.

Simply put, permits come first and anything else is a secondary issue. I would suggest that had a permit been requested, the issue of wetlands might have killed the cabana/pool in its present configuration or forced its modification and the state of Massachusetts would not and should not be involved in attempting to save the cabana and pool.

Furthermore, the cabana being called an "accessory building" to the Gibson's house seems to be stretching reality. I am unaware that grass counts as building property and I cannot understand how a practicing lawyer could keep a straight face and make such a claim.

Let another country take lead

Editor, Townsmen:

In reference to state Rep. Barry Finegold's letter in last week's Townsmen ("State Rep.: We must rise against Darfur's genocide"), I would like to add a similar quote. The 18th Century Irish philosopher Edmund Burke said, "The only thing necessary for the triumph of evil is for good men to do nothing."

Finegold's heartfelt letter about the atrocities occurring in the Darfur region of the Sudan shows that he is a compassionate human being. I thank him for bringing this crisis to our attention, and I agree that help should be given. I would ask him not to doubt President George Bush's concern in this matter. I am sure that this genocide weighs heavily on his mind, and on the minds of those around him.

It was not long ago that the Iraqi people were held captive by the brutal regime of Saddam Hussein. The nightmare of rape rooms and torture chambers is now over, and our discovery of mass graves in that country tells of what life must have been like there. The U.S. and coalition forces have done a miraculous job in freeing the Iraqis from their tremendous suffering. Iraq is about to join the free democratic nations of the world.

I do agree with Finegold that we should come to the aid of the people of Darfur, but the sad reality is that increasing numbers of our citizens (mostly from the left) are railing against our very presence in Iraq. They are not interested in completing the mission there. How can Finegold realistically expect that these people will be ready to commit American help in Darfur?

Bush is a good man who hates injustice, but he is only one man and cannot do everything. I think that, at the moment, we must look to other countries for help. What about France? What about Germany? What are they doing right now? Surely there is someone out there who can take the lead in bringing aid to the desperate and deserving people of Darfur. We must all pray for that.

Holiday lights were in new hands

Editor, Townsmen:

I am the founder of Vale Landscaping and have lived in this town for all of my 47 years. Over the years I've continued to live and work in town and developed many new friends and business contacts after having started my company, Vale Landscaping, in 1983.

My letter is concerning an article published on the front page of the Andover Townsman on Oct. 27. The article quotes the town manager in saying the town considered Vale Landscaping's performance on the town's tree lighting for 2004 as "a less than superlative job."

Vale was owned and operated by my wife Leslie and myself until Oct. 14, 2004.

Under my ownership, Vale had completed holiday lighting for the town of Andover for a period of five years - from 1999 through 2003 - and during that time the town was completely satisfied with our work. Vale was a sole proprietorship at that time and as a result anyone who knew of Vale associated it with me. Vale Landscaping was Bill Ferris.

The business was a complete success as we took pride in the quality of our work, whether it was snowplowing, landscaping or Christmas decorating. The business was part of the Christmas Decor franchise. In 1999, 2001, 2003 at our annual Christmas Decor convention we were chosen franchisee of the year for the Northeast due to growth and customer service.

The news of selling my company in 2004 was never discussed with your newspaper or any other newspaper as I believed at the time the news of the sale was best left unsaid to ease transition to the new owner.

I feel strongly, due to a lack of the public being informed of the sale of Vale, that the town's dissatisfaction could be directly associated with me personally. I continue to live in town and intend to start another business venture in the near future. My reputation is one of hard work, and being extremely detail oriented, a reputation I have worked very hard to get to where it is.

The new owner of Vale, Edward J. Gill, started a newly formed corporation called Vale Landscaping Inc. This corporation became active on the day of the sale, Oct. 14, 2004. This owner was trained by Christmas Decor officers in Texas (prior to his acquiring Vale). I introduced Vale's new owner to Randy Pickersgill, who was in charge of the town lighting for last year, and from that point on the new owner was managing all day-to-day operations including the installation and maintenance of the town of Andover's tree-lighting program for 2004.

The intent of this letter is just to set the record straight.

In choice between schools and center, I'll take schools

Editor, Townsmen:

I had to stop and think today, yes really, stop and think. Did the Townsmen knowingly place the article on the Andover Youth Foundation seeking $1 million along side the story, "Money low, but parents aim high," or was this just divine intervention?

Either way, what we have in these two stories is a battle for the heart, mind, soul and, yes, money of the taxpayers of Andover. With great deference to my non-paying property owners and youth ... this is not about you.

On one side we have the youth foundation, which, according to Director of Youth Services Bill Fahey suggests, "The town is not following a logical process. How realistic is it when you can't get $7 million passed at Town Meeting, and then say, 'Let's just pretend we can pass a community center?'" It's not the issue of a community center, it's a matter of the money. Wow, talk about divine intervention.

Correct me if I'm wrong, but what Fahey fails to recognize is that maybe, just maybe, the town is reaching, or has reached its tipping point. With a limited budget, not every special interest project can be funded. Instead, we are looking to invest in projects that do not benefit just the youth, or in the case of the failed senior center, just the seniors - we are looking at funding projects that benefit all. And there it is, the article on school funding.

A great Andover school system benefits everyone, the youth, families, and seniors. According to the article, the school is looking to restore elementary music programs, increase physical education at elementary and middle schools, fund clubs and intramural sports, add a social worker at the high school and bring back late buses. I was especially delighted that the schools recently restored health in both the elementary and middle schools. Imagine our young people having questions answered by youth services with regard to middle-school smoking, sexual conduct, alcohol and drug use? Special interests aside, (and to Townwide PAC president Bill Pennington, regarding his ridiculous comment about going downtown and seeing fur coats and BMWs: try not to insult the very people who you are looking to for support) we need to start thinking and acting like a community, and fund projects that benefit all.

When it comes down to $1 million for a youth center or for the schools, well, I know how I'll vote.

TREATMENTS FOR FRENCH DOORS

French doors may occupy the same approximate space as a sliding glass door, but they do not lend themselves to treatments with verticals because the doors open inward rather than slide. Moreover, French doors possess architectural elements that you do not want to bury beneath blinds. It may be best, then, to choose a product with a low-profile headrail and hold-down brackets at the bottom of each pane of glass. The vanes or shade material of the window treatment should stay close to the door so that they work in tandem with each section of the door. Pleated shades are also an option, and if privacy is not a requirement, consider decorating each pane with shantung cinched in the middle.

At SUE ADAMS INTERIORS, our goal is not only to help you create beautiful interiors for your home or office, but to incorporate your needs, ideas, and personal taste into a decorating theme that truly satisfies your wishes. By listening to you, we can learn about your lifestyle and preferences and offer you a unique decorating plan to accommodate them. For help with choosing window treatments, floor coverings, wallpaper, color coordination, or furniture, please give us a call.

HINT: you do not want to cover the door handles on your french doors with shades.

Marine Staff Sergeant Matthew Thresher, 29, is home safely and visiting his family after a seven-month tour of duty in Iraq.

Marine: 'It's good to be home'

■ HOMECOMING

"I didn't want to let him go," said an elated Debbie Rutter. "I'm overwhelmed and in awe. It's so good to have him home."

The motorcade from Boston to Lowell was an event that took Thresher by surprise. Eight police officers on motorcycles lead Thresher's party on the non-stop route back to his boyhood home. Approximately 35 officers volunteered to escort Thresher into Andover, according to Jackie Rutter.

When Thresher's car turned onto Summer Street, each passing tree and utility pole was plastered with "Welcome Home" signs. Fluttering flags lined the sidewalk. Standing in front of Deb Rutter's banner-draped home, an eager crowd cheered Thresher's homecoming.

"It's good to be home," said Thresher, who had his wife, Cherish, and two-year-old son, Luke, close by his side. "This was really unexpected, but really nice."

According to the official Web site for the 3rd Battalion, 25th Marines, the unit's mission is to locate and destroy the enemy, or to repel their assault by fire and close combat. The battalion is also prepared to augment and reinforce active Marine forces in case of a national emergency.

Thresher and his company deployed to Iraq in February. The Thresher received a police escort from the airport to his mother's Summer Street home.

Department of Defense reports 692 U.S. soldiers have been killed since January, with a total of 2,026 killed since March 2003.

"What happened to Matthew's unit is a sad and tragic story," said John Doherty, director of Andover Veterans' Services. "But it's just one part of their story. The guys did a lot while they were over there."

Lima Company, consisting of Marines ages 18 to 58, was the only unit in the 2nd Marine Division to clear and liberate an Iraqi city in an area of operations. The unit conducted 11 combat team operations, cordoned off and searched 14 major cities, patrolled 150,000 miles of country and helped the Iraqi Army become more involved, according to US

Marine Corps reports.

"I'm just amazed at what these young men and women have to do, and the sacrifices they make, like leaving their families behind," said Jackie Rutter, trying to choke back tears. "Hopefully all the soldiers coming home get the same kind of reception. Whether your viewpoint on the war is positive or negative, everybody who comes home should be thanked."

Thresher, who currently lives in Ohio where Lima Company is based, planned to spend the week in his native Andover.

"Words can't describe how happy I feel," said Debbie Rutter. "He is safe. He is home. And I'm going to savor all the time I have with him."

My night as a Luddite

Bill Dalton

It's hard to believe that the Great Blackout was 40 years ago: Nov. 9, 1965. It was one of those events that folks know where they were when it happened.

My wife and I lived in Boston near Brookline Village. It was late afternoon, 5:16 p.m. There was still quite a bit of light outside. I was in my first year of law school and I was studying hard.

Before 1965 there was no such thing as a blackout, and, except in bad storms, the flow of electricity was constant. The thought of having the lights go out was ridiculous; it wouldn't happen. Later, when I spoke with my parents, they said that they did not remember ever having the electricity fail for no apparent reason.

The lamp on my desk dimmed, then came back. It was the sort of thing you'd associate with a storm, but the weather was good. The lamp dimmed again, but this time it stayed dim for a minute. Hmmm, I wondered: this was a bit unusual. Then it dimmed further and went out. Maybe there was a problem with the wiring in the building. It was still light enough outside that we did not immediately notice that lights were out all over. As minutes passed and it got darker, I found a flashlight and candles and continued to study. My wife read. It was now obvious that the lights were out in the buildings around us.

A half hour later, when it was fully dark outside, a friend who lived nearby knocked on the door. He'd been caught in the subway under Huntington Avenue, and had walked out of a tunnel with the rest of the passengers. He said the whole city was blacked out. That was incredible.

The whole city of Boston without electricity - not possible! I asked if he saw any looting or signs of trouble. He said no.

We turned on a portable radio and found local stations operating on emergency power. We were told that the whole northeastern part of the United States, including New England, New York, and parts of Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and parts of eastern Canada, were without power. Thirty million people were affected. Airports shut down, elevators stopped, all electric lights went out. The reason was unknown. Obviously, everyone was concerned about the cause. We had candle-lit conversations with other neighbors. Was it the Russians? Was the blackout to be followed by a nuclear missile exchange? Were terrorists responsible? The last thing we guessed was a mechanical or technical error. That sort of thing didn't happen in the United States in 1965; the flow of electricity was assumed; power companies were infallible. We all thought that something was seriously wrong.

One good sign: the phones were working. I called my parents in Andover.

My mother had heard that President Johnson was going to address the nation, but no one had any answers yet. They asked if I had gas in my car in case we had to leave Boston.

After I hung up, I thought about my mixed emotions; I was excitedly sanguine. I wanted to know what was going on but knew there wasn't much I could do about it in any event. And yet, being young, I did have a plan: create or find a party. With my friend from the subway and our wives, we headed to visit some well-to-do friends in Newton. They had a nice place that was always well-stocked with beer and booze.

On our way, we detoured to look around. It was a beautiful night and a bright moon had risen. The thing that struck me most about the city lights being out was that I could clearly see the sky. The stars were sharp white, in spite of the moonlight. That night offered the best view of the sky that had been seen in Boston for more than 100 years. We knew we were witnessing an historical event.

But the whole scene was also eerie; the big buildings and streets were dark and mostly quiet. The few people who were out shined flashlights to and fro and cast long shadows in our car's headlights. We drove down Commonwealth Avenue near Boston University. At intersections where there should have been traffic signals, students using white towels were directing traffic. It was probably because people believed students to be an irresponsible group that the matter of their directing traffic later became a national news item. It was something the rest of the country talked about.

Generally speaking, people behaved well throughout the Northeast. The summer riots that had occurred in several cities in 1964 were fresh memories and yet there were no riots during the Great Blackout of 1965.

In years to come, there would be many other blackouts, brownouts, and something called a "rolling brownouts." In 1977, when the lights went out in New York City, there was widespread rioting, looting, and vandalism. Damage was estimated to be $300 million (1977 dollars), and 4,000 people were arrested. There was also the Great Blackout of 2003, which affected approximately the same area as the 1965 event. By 2003 - once terrorism was ruled out (as it almost immediately was) - everyone was pretty blasé about blackouts. Power failure was no longer unexpected.

In Newton 40 years ago, we talked and drank beer and then learned by radio that the blackout was caused by nothing more than the failure of a mechanical switch near the Canadian Border. Later, the electricity returned, but some people went without it for 13 hours. When the lights returned, I was mildly disappointed. Perhaps I am a closet Luddite: seeing giant technology fail had been a bit enjoyable. But then again, I hadn't been stuck on an elevator for hours or had my plane diverted to Chicago.

Bill Dalton is a former Andover selectman and Town Meeting moderator who writes from Austin, Texas.

No Clue on the ending of this show

Audience votes in local take on classic board game

By Judy Wakefield

THE ANDOVER DIRECTOR BEHIND an upcoming musical insists theater is alive and well in these parts – even though her show is all about a murder.

"It's our fourth show and it's a gas," said director Penny Kohut. "As usual, we are doing something with a show that is a little off the beaten path."

Cartoonish best describes this show, Clue the Musical, she said, as props are oversized and characters are, well, over-the-top. The musical uses the characters from the classic board game Clue, where players work to gather clues to solve a murder.

Kohut directs the production, but will also play the role of Mrs. Peacock, as the woman originally cast had to leave the show. Dressed in a peacock-blue dress with a peacock hat, she flashes her 10-carat diamond (a fake) when she sings about her five ex-husbands, who have all died, as her long fake eyelashes flutter. One of her songs includes a line about her having the same plastic surgeon as Ivana Trump.

But did she kill Mr. Boddy? Maybe the five-time widow did, but her lips are sealed. It could have been any of the characters from the board game – Professor Plum, Miss Scarlet, Mr. Green, Colonel Mustard or the cook, Mrs. White – as they are all in the show.

The audience participates, as members decide the outcome of this whodunnit. Just like the board game, the audience picks the murderer, the weapon and the room in the house where the murder takes place. The audience gets three cards upon entering and their votes are placed in an envelope – an oversized one, of course. That's how the ending is determined.

Did she do it? It's all in the cards, as the audience will cast a card and vote for the murderer in a local production of Clue the Musical. The show is directed by Penny Kohut of Andover (pictured at left), who also plays the role of Mrs. Peacock.

Dan Sarno puts out the call for student actors, and a new club is born

By Rita Savard

AT AN AGE WHEN MOST KIDS are watching cartoons, Dan Sarno was reading books on film and pointing out some of Hollywood's biggest movie bloopers.

Whether it was a boom mic dipping into a set frame, or an actor suddenly changing hair styles, a 10-year-old Sarno demonstrated early on a penchant for cinematic perfection.

Now 17, the Andover High School senior is turning some heads in the film industry with several projects under his belt, including a made-for-TV series he is writing, directing and producing on his own.

Describing his brainchild as a "dramedy," the one-hour show titled It's Alright combines a no-nonsense storyline with a biting sense of humor.

"I've never seen a show on television that's anything like this," says Sarno. "We're trying to explain something through the characters. They are the plot, and each show begins at the end with a new clincher that grabs the audience."

It's Alright revolves around a cast of six main characters, all teenagers who are introduced slowly and deliberately. Each main cast member, according to Sarno, has something to say about themselves, revealing a piece of the bigger picture – high school life in suburbia.

"In the first episode, we breach a little bit upon date violence," says Sarno. "The themes are dramatic and serious but the characters are funny, similar to life. Life is not boring, everyone has moments of drama and then something hilarious happens."

Shooting for the pilot is scheduled in December and Sarno is already sorting through contract offers with local cable access stations and national distributor, Cinerio Entertainment, based in Canada.

The young filmmaker, who is inspired by the likes of Woody Allen and Stanley

Dan Sarno (at center, in red shirt), gives direction to a group of students auditioning for a part in the one-hour show he's filming, It's Alright. Also in the scene are Andrew Dwyer (behind the camera), producer John Chartier, and auditioning student actors: Seated (from left), front row: Ashley Baldwin and Dinny Spang; back row: Alanna Perry, Mike Lamagna and Sydney Layne.

Kubrick, began writing the television show in June. Sarno was wandering the Emerson College campus – where he applied to study film – and watched a taping of the student show The EC.

"The acting and camera work was poor," Sarno said. "I thought, if people are watching this, I have a camera and the capabilities to do something even better."

Last month at Andover High, Sarno put out a cast call for aspiring young actors. The buzz around school over Sarno's project led to the formation of a new club – the network miniseries club, featuring the television show It's Alright. With 67 student members, it's currently the largest club at AHS.

"We trust Dan," says senior Sydney

Layne, 17. Layne, along with several other AHS students, have been clamoring for a spot on Sarno's show.

"He's a good writer, and the script shows it," Layne says. "It's high schoolers acting out real high school situations that are told through the eyes of someone in high school. You can't get any thing more real than that."

"He takes his work very seriously," adds senior Ashley Baldwin, 18. "He's a perfectionist."

Quality is something Sarno says he won't compromise. All filming for It's Alright will be done with a 16 mm professional movie camera, with scenes shot at different locations including Andover High.

Natraj to appear in concert next weekend at Chinmaya Mission

The world-jazz group Natraj will present a concert next Sunday, Nov. 13 at Chinmaya Maruti, 1 Union St. (Route 28, off I-495), Andover.

This program features special guest, Indian classical virtuoso Sangeet Samrat Chitravina N. Ravikiran.

The music begins at 5 p.m. Tickets are $16 (general) and $12 (students, seniors); age 6 and under are admitted free.

Natraj performed with Chitravina Ravikiran in India's Prayojana International Music Festival in 2004. Doordarshan (Indian National Television) broadcast this collaboration.

Now, these artists bring their East-West synthesis to Chinmaya Maruti. Natraj showcases Ravikiran on adaptations of Indian classical and original pieces, including works by Ravikiran. Ravikiran also presents an Indian classical segment.

The Los Angeles Times said, "One of the finest Indian classical masters, Ravikiran is 'an arresting virtuoso.'"

Ravikiran plays the chitravina, the Indian stringed instrument. He has performed and recorded with the BBC Philharmonic, blues legend Taj Mahal, and Grammy Award-winner Glenn Velez.

According to Radio National Australia, Ravikiran is "perhaps the greatest slide instrumentalist in the world today."

Ravikiran developed the innovative Melharmony concept to create harmony from ragas. He and professor Robert Morris of the Eastman School of Music will present this concept on Nov. 12 at the Society for Music Theory's annual meeting in Cambridge. Check out www.ravikiranmusic.com for details.

Organizers said, "Natraj has delighted listeners in clubs, concerts, and festivals throughout the US, India, West Africa, and Canada since 1987."

In this concert, Natraj features the virtuosity of guest Ravikiran: Phil Scarff, soprano saxophone; Thomson Kneeland, string bass; Jerry Leake, tabla and multipercussion; and Bertram Lehmann, drums and percussion.

According to a press release, Chinmaya Mission provides individuals the wisdom of Vedanta and the means for spiritual growth and happiness. Vedanta is the core of Hindu philosophy, the universal science of life, and helpful to people of all faiths.

Chinmaya Mission offers spiritual and cultural programs, including daily services, discussion groups, yoga, community service, and Indian music and dance instruction.

A portion of the proceeds will be donated to Chinmaya Mission, Boston, which operates Chinmaya Maruti.

Each has won competitions such as the Avery Fischer Career Grant (Eldredge, Levison, Frautschi), the Guardian Dublin International Competition (Levison), and the Concours International d'Interpretations Musicales (Ruske).

Reserved seats are $30 and $25 at the Rogers Center for the Arts. Subscriptions, group sales and student rush are available.

Portrait of a coach

Halberstam kicks off book tour at Phillips

Pulitzer Prize-winning author David Halberstam is coming to the alma mater of New England Patriots coach Bill Belichick to talk a little football. He'll also talk about history, Iraq, politics and sports in general before signing copies of his new book, The Education of a Coach.

Halberstam will speak in the Cochran Chapel on the Phillips Academy campus on Friday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m. He will be joined onstage by Ernie Adams, the Patriots' director of operations, who, like Belichick, is also a PA alumnus. Following his talk, Halberstam will take questions from the audience and sign copies of his book.

The event is free and open to the public.

Copies of Halberstam's book will be available for purchase starting at 6:30 p.m. in the chapel lobby. The book can also be purchased online at www.andover.edu. All proceeds from books purchased through Phillips Academy will be donated to the school's Disaster Relief Fund.

Considered to be one of the country's most distinguished social and political commentators, Halberstam is a journalist and prolific author who has written 20 books, 14 of which have been bestsellers. In 1964, at the age of 30, Halberstam won a Pulitzer Prize for his accounts of the Vietnam War while working as a reporter for The New York Times.

A man of many interests, his books have tackled diverse topics, including the Vietnam War, the civil rights struggle, John F. Kennedy's presidency, the US's post-Cold War foreign policy, and the challenge the American automobile industry faces from Japan. In the area of sports, among other topics, he has written about Michael Jordan, and the 1949 pennant race between the Red Sox and the Yankees. One of his most recent bestsellers was Firehouse, the story of a New York firehouse that lost 12 men during the terrorist attacks of 9/11.

In his newest book, Halberstam uses his analytical skills and keen story-telling abilities to take readers into the mind of Belichick, a man who many have come to describe as one the most formidable and highly intelligent coaches in football history. He examines the influences in his life that molded and shaped him as well as the unique characteristics that have taken him to the pinnacle of his profession.

The Education of a Coach is published by Hyperion of New York City. It was scheduled to be released to bookstores on Nov. 1.

Alice revisits Wonderland

Merrimack Junior Theatre is presenting Alice, a fun and fanciful musical adaptation of Lewis Carroll's Alice in Wonderland on Nov. 11, 12 and 13 at Memorial Auditorium at Doherty Middle School, Bartlett Street.

Performances for Friday and Saturday night begin at 7:30, and the Sunday matinee starts at 2 p.m. Tickets will be on sale in Andover at Kabloom Florists on Main Street and at the Department of Community Services on Bartlett Street.

Tickets, which cost $8, may also be purchased from cast members.

On stage, eccentric characters like the Cool Caterpillar, the Mad Hatter, and the White Rabbit will join Alice as she discovers the wonders of Wonderland, which include singing computers, a queen obsessed with tarts, and a mock turtle who paints the sky. The theme of the show, which underlies Alice's adventures, is a search for personal identity in an often confusing world.

The Merrimack Junior Theatre, now in its 18th year, is a non-profit children's theater dedicated to teaching life skills through theater arts.

Cast members are selected by audition and production committees are staffed by volunteer parents and students.

Auditions for MJT's spring musical, Oliver, will held at West Elementary School on Beacon Street in Andover on Dec. 1 and 2 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Auditions are open to students in grades 7 through 10. Students should prepare a monologue (one-minute maximum) and be prepared to sing the first two bars of America (My Country 'Tis of Thee).

Students should also bring a non-returnable photo of themselves.

MURDER MYSTERY

"It's fun. It's family-oriented," said Kohut. "Everyone has played the game at some point." She believes the audience will have a blast getting involved, and the actual murder is just a hoot.

The show opens with a cast of young actors portraying the adult characters and includes Kohut's daughter, Katy. Katy tried out and landed the role of a young Miss Peacock.

The landlord of the stage space on Island Street in Lawrence also has a role. Landlord Chet Sidell is the butler.

"When he said he'd love to be in a show, we put him in. And guess what his name is in the show?" the director asks. "C'mon, think about it."

Sidell is named "Lawrence the butler" in the show.

Kohut says the name is perfect as Lawrence is becoming a must-go destination for theater buffs. She loves her stage space on the city's Island Street, next door to Essex Arts Center, and its close proximity to Andover.

"Everyone has played Clue, so we thought this would be a good one," she said. "And it is."

DAN SARNO

Boston and other towns outside Andover.

"We're not making a profit on the show," says Sarno. "But I told everyone involved that we have to write it and shoot it as if we were."

The first of six episodes of It's Alright will premiere sometime in January. Sarno said the show probably won't be accessible to viewers on Andover's local cable station, but a DVD collection with exclusive behind the scenes footage will be available for Andoverites to purchase.

"Remember the name Dan Sarno," says Rich Farrell, film teacher at AHS. "He's definitely going places."

This Friday, the premiere of Sarno's other cinematic projects will take place inside the Andover High TV Studio, adjacent to the Collins Center. Sarno shot and edited the 45-minute feature film, Sticks and Stones, directed by Dan Shea and starring AHS grad Emily Korba. The free screening opens at 7 p.m., beginning with a four-minute music video created by Sarno, based around the ABBA song What's the name of the game.

How to build in Andover: Town's updated guide for developers

By Greta Cuyler

Developers looking for a clearer understanding of how to build in Andover may soon have it, say planning officials.

The Planning Board is trying to eliminate ambiguity and confusion by reviewing changes to Andover's rules and regulations. The result is an additional 50-pages to the current regulations.

"When a developer walks through the door, if they pick up the (new) rules and regulations, it essentially provides them with a blueprint for development in town," said Paul Materazzo, a town planner.

Every time a developer makes a building proposal to the town, several departments review the plan. There have been instances where there were vague, and in some cases, conflicting requirements.

The changes are not meant to make it easier or more difficult for proposed developments in town, just to clarify the rules, say officials. There are no changes to what is currently required of developers. "Ninety-five percent of it is technical engineering detail," said Town Counsel Tom Urbelis.

The project has been a more-than-one-year collaborative effort between the town's planning, conservation and engineering divisions, the Board of Health and the Department of Public Works.

The public is invited to weigh in on the new document. The next public hearing is scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. in the third-floor conference room at Town Offices.

The effort included clarifying the rules of storm-water management and drainage, two issues addressed during nearly every subdivision proposal.

The rules and regulations were last rewritten in 1986. Planning Director Steve Colyer said buildable plots in Andover are more "topographically challenged" now than they were 20 years ago.

Once the new document is adopted, the Planning Board will be able to enforce everything in those regulations. On the flip side, the board will have no recourse against developers who follow the rules, according to the town's lawyer.

"If (developers) meet these rules and regulations, you must approve (the project)," Urbelis told board members at an Oct. 25 meeting.

The Planning Board will still have authority to waive requirements, if for instance, a developer proposes an innovative idea that the board deems acceptable. "If you have a better mousetrap, absolutely, bring it to the board," said Urbelis.

Keamy treats kids at Mass Eye

The Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary (MEEI) appointed Donald G. Keamy Jr., a resident of Andover, as a new pediatric otolaryngologist.

Donald Keamy

Keamy received a bachelor's degree in psychology from Brown University in Providence, R.I., and received his medical degree and master's degree of public health from Tufts University School of Medicine.

Keamy's duties in his new position include treating the pediatric conditions of the ear, nose and throat with a special focus on pediatric ear disease and sinus disease, and pediatric obstructive sleep apnea. He is also involved in education of residents and medical students. Thousands of pediatric patients are seen in his department each year.

"We are delighted to have Dr. Keamy join us at MEEI. He comes with excellent training in pediatric otolaryngology from the University of Pittsburgh. Moreover, he has a special interest in public health and health policy, which will add a dimension to our group," said Joseph Nadol, MEEI chief of otolaryngology.

New masseuse in town

"Pure pampering" is how Denise McGarry describes the 90-minute massages she gives clients at Andover Massage Therapy.

McGarry recently moved to Andover from her position at Top Notch Resort and Spa in Stowe, Vt., to join the six other professional massage staffers at Andover Massage. "We moved here because my husband grew up in North Andover and we wanted to be near family," she explains, "and North Andover and Andover are great communities to be in." She looks forward to exploring Andover, and is "excited about meeting the people in Andover and the surrounding towns."

The mother of three has worked as a massage therapist for more than eight years, and loves it because "massage is so beneficial for your body, so wonderful for you — physically as well as mentally," she says.

McGarry performs Swedish, deep tissue, and pregnancy massages and says stone therapy is one of her favorite types. It includes hot black stones and oils, perfect for the snowy, frigid winter ahead, she says. "Those massages are incredible," McGarry pronounces, "especially on a very cold day."

"My favorite thing about [giving massages] is seeing people after they receive the massage, how they can stand up straighter and how they're happier," she explains. "I love the saying that says, 'when life takes it out of you, massage puts it back.'"

A new Morning in town for shopping

Home store Tuesday Morning to open in Shawsheen Plaza next week

By Greta Cuyler

Tuesday Morning, a store specializing in decorative home furniture and gifts, will open in Andover next week. Opening day will be (when else?) Tuesday morning, Nov. 8.

The Dallas, Texas-based chain says it sells brand-name products at 50-80 percent off retail price.

Beginning Nov. 8, sale items will include a Cuisinart food processor, a variety of crystal, a child's train set, a two-seater golf cart for kids, luggage sets, bedding and Persian rugs.

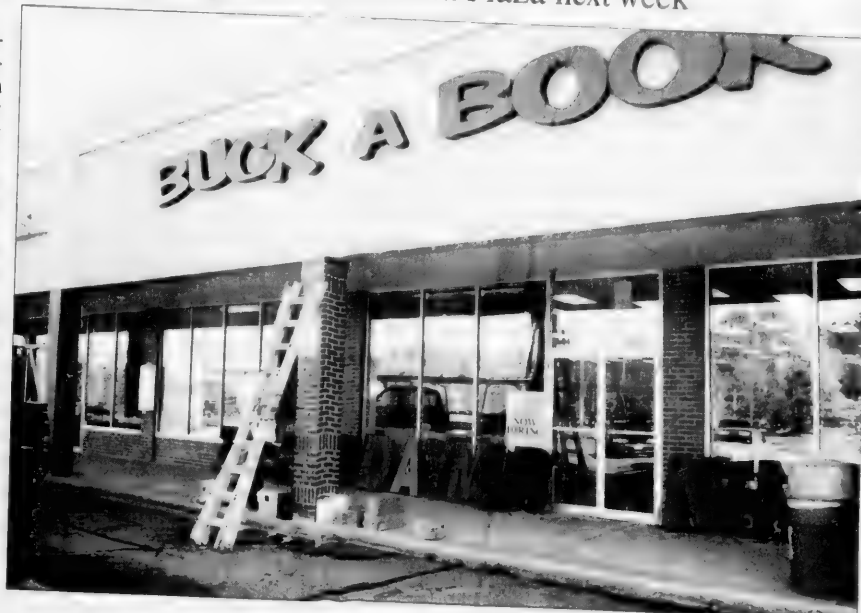

"This incredible collection of merchandise is here just in time to help our customers celebrate the holidays in style," said Kathleen Mason, president and CEO of Tuesday Morning. Mason has been at the helm of the company for the past five years and has ties to Boston, through her Bostonian husband, Charlie.

The Beantown connection extends to the company's Chief Operating Officer Mike Marchetti, another Boston native, who, along with Mason, used to work at the now-defunct Cherry, Webb & Touraine.

Tuesday Morning is perhaps more widely known in the country's southeastern, southwestern and western states. The company, founded in 1974, is publicly-traded and has 732 stores in 46 states. The Andover store will be the chain's seventh location in the Boston area.

It's mainly women who shop at Tuesday Morning, said Laurey Peat, who manages public relations and investor relations for the firm, and spent 14 years as a salesperson for Tuesday Morning.

"Women know how to shop, they recognize brands, they can go to a shelf and search for the right item. If they don't find a piece of a set they're looking for, they know how to dig back and find the matching set," she said.

Tuesday Morning, a home-goods business, will take over the space in Shawsheen Plaza — and replace lettering above the space — that was previously used by a Buck A Book store.

The store sells brand name items, with manufacturer names including Spode, Hummel, Smith & Wesson and Lalique.

Don't expect to find outdated or second quality items at Tuesday Morning, said Peat. The company buys the first-quality items directly from manufacturers, after full-priced retailers have already made their selections. "It's the exact same merchandise, and often the same year," said Peat.

Store merchandise sells so quickly, she said, that it leads to a "treasure hunt" atmosphere, with customers never knowing what finds will be on the shelves at each visit. New products arrive weekly.

Tuesday Morning's doors will open at 7 a.m. next Tuesday, Nov. 8. The 5,935-square foot store is located in Shawsheen Plaza at 209 North Main Street, in the space formerly occupied by Buck-A-Book.

Known primarily for home goods such as dinnerware, Tuesday Morning carries a variety of products, including a toy golf cart.

New private school, Vista Prep, celebrating its opening

By Alessandra Siraco
What's Up contributor

To celebrate its opening this fall, a new independent Andover school is hosting a reception on Wednesday, Nov. 16 at its new location near the downtown.

Vista Preparatory School, on the second floor of 2 Dundee Park, is "a non-profit school for students with learning style differences from grades four through eight," says Kathleen Farrell, head of school at Vista Prep. Farrell is no newcomer to such work. She was previously the director of admissions and the Head of School at Willow Hill School in Sudbury.

Vista Prep is a school that admits a maximum 50 students, with classes no larger than eight students. With a student-teacher ratio of four to one, this tiny school offers one-to-one tutorials regularly, as well as "study skills classes" for seventh- and eighth-graders looking to boost their writing and test-taking skills, said Farrell this summer.

Teachers who guide the students are "selected based upon their knowledge of learning style differences, as well as their experience in education," explained Farrell.

Vista Prep's students benefit from intense teacher connections, as many of them have dyslexia, Asperger's syndrome, language-processing issues, need help in learning study skills, are too young for their grade, or "lack self-confidence in their ability to learn," says Vista Prep's brochure.

Students enroll in courses covering grammar, literature, math, social studies and science, as well as a "selection" of physical education, yoga, art and music.

The annual tuition is $17,500. For more information call 978-470-1399.

OBITUARIES

Frank M. "Skip" Eccles

Retired Phillips math teacher, served on School Committee here

Frank M. "Skip" Eccles, 80, of Brookfield Road, a retired math teacher at Phillips Academy, died at Lawrence General Hospital, surrounded by family members, on Tuesday, Nov. 1, a few days after having a stroke.

"Mr. Skip," as he was called to distinguish him from his wife, Helen, who shares the same nickname, was a 1943 graduate of Phillips Academy. After seven years working as an engineer at General Electric in Schenectady, N.Y., he joined the Phillips Academy faculty as a math teacher.

A lacrosse player at Princeton, where he graduated Phi Beta Kappa, he coached winning lacrosse teams at Phillips Academy for 22 years.

Mr. Eccles had done "almost everything at PA," according to colleague Thomas Lyons in an article prepared for the Andover Bulletin at the time of Eccles' retirement: written three math texts, held an Independence Teaching Foundation Chair, was a house counselor and served as dean of West Quad South Cluster and dean of studies.

Passionate about education and teaching, he chaired several key faculty committees and developed math programs at PA.

A tireless volunteer and advocate, he tutored children in Boston's Roxbury section in the early 1960s, founded a unique summer math program at PA for Lawrence High School students in the mid-1960s, and wrote a report in 1966 on the composition of the student body that became the blueprint for the school's present multicultural, multiracial and multiclass community. He also taught at A Better Chance (ABC) — a program that helps disadvantaged inner-city youth rise up the educational ladder — at Dartmouth College from 1968 to 1971 and was involved in the ABC program in Andover.

He was the trusted faculty adviser to PA's Afro-Latino-American Society in the years when there were no black faculty. A key figure in the academy's (MS) program, he served at one time as its director.

In 1981, he created, secured the funding for, and directed the Andover-Dartmouth Teachers Institute (ADI) for inner-city math teachers.

Mr. Lyons said, "Skip has a vision of education in the good society, and he turned rhetoric into reality by clear thinking and three decades of hard work. No sunshine soldier he, nor his wife, Helen." The couple, who retired in 1990, were called "the conscience of the academy."

The Eccleses retired to a home near Andover's downtown, and in 1996 Mr. Eccles ran for a vacancy on the Andover School Committee and won handily. It took the late Virginia Cole, a prominent figure in Andover, to urge him to run, as Eccles was, according to Tina Girdwood, a former chairwoman of the school board, "as apolitical as they come." He served on the board from 1996 to 2002.

"Skip cared very deeply about children, education and teaching.

"He was at times quiet but always thoughtful and witty, and he was an intellect. He seemed to grow more passionate about various causes with each passing year. The town of Andover's school system is better because Skip served those six years," said Girdwood.

"His passing is a great loss as he was a truly extraordinary human being who cared deeply about all children," said Claudia Bach, superintendent of schools. "He worked for excellence in our schools and a high level of achievement. He was a great supporter of our schools."

His belief that every child deserves a quality education was carried after retirement into the Lawrence community, where he volunteered for the past four years as a math teacher at the Family Development Charter School.

He was also a member of the school's board of directors. Also in retirement, he indulged one of his great loves, singing in the Andover Choral Society, which gives concerts in Cochran Chapel and other venues.

In addition to his wife, members of his family include a son, Charles "Cobber" Eccles; daughters, Lydia Eccles, Isabel Eccles and Betsy Eccles; four grandchildren; and a great-grandson.

A memorial service will be held Sunday, Nov. 6 at 1 p.m. at Christ Church, Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Boys and Girls Clubs of Lawrence, 136 Water St., Lawrence, MA 01841.

Family members said he was known as "Mr. Fix It" and was an accomplished carpenter. He willingly shared his talents by helping family and friends. He was there whenever needed and was a perfectionist in whatever he did. The use of his skills and crafts brought great enjoyment, but his greatest pleasures came from those times spent with his two sons and their interests, and his wife of 27 years.

He was a member of St. Robert Bellarmine Church in Andover.

Members of his family include his wife, Susan M. (McCarthy) DeLeo; sons, Gregory and Jonathan DeLeo, all of Andover; two sisters, Susan and her husband Danny Beauregard, and Annette DeLeo, all of Haverhill; sisters-in-law, Lorraine and her husband Frank O'Keefe of Billerica, Eileen Beals of Hudson, N.H., and Linda McCarthy of Winchester; brothers-in-law, Richard and his wife Carol McCarthy of Billerica, and George and his wife Maureen McCarthy of Saugus; many nieces and nephews; and many great-nieces and great-nephews. He was predeceased by a sister-in-law, Joanne and her late husband, Joe O'Keefe, formerly of Chelmsford.

Arrangements were by the Dewhirst & Conte Funeral Home, 28 Florence St., Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Dana-Farber Cancer Institution, Brookline, MA 02445; or the American Lung Association, One Abby Lane, Middleboro, MA 02346.

REMEMBRANCE

A next-door neighbor's Halloween memory

Neighborhood Halloween celebrations were plentiful on Monday, as costumed kids rang doorbells while their parents held flashlights in the driveways.

But things were different on Brookfield Road this year. No lights were on at No. 66, home of the neighborhood's best-dressed witch who annually brewed a mean, smoking cider. For many years, she would slowly take a scary peek from under her oversized, pointed black hat and smile with a black tooth as big as her crooked nose. Using a black ladle, she would pour a cup of cider into a paper cup and cackle.

Judy Wakefield

Her gray-bearded accomplice, her husband, simply held the front door for visitors, softly saying, "Enter if you dare" and then smiling.

The youngest of the costumed crowd often turned to a parent with a very panicked look – a picture-perfect Halloween reaction.

For years, Brookfield Road neighbors would bump into each other on the street that night saying, "Did you go to Skip's yet?" The neighborhood kids loved stopping at the home of Helen and Frank Eccles, and so did the parents. My boys, now ages 12 and 13, consider it the coolest Halloween stop on the street, as do many other neighborhood kids.

It's a rock-solid memory for them – and me – and I will always be grateful to my next-door neighbors for taking the time to stage our neighborhood's favorite Halloween scene.

Sadly, that stage will never be set again. The witch's unassuming bearded accomplice died in the wee hours after Halloween, less than a week after suffering a stroke. Frank "Skip" Eccles was 80.

The one-time chairman of the math department and a teacher at Phillips Academy, the former School Committee member lived on Brookfield Road for the past 15 years, having retired from Phillips in 1990.

"Skip" was his boyhood nickname and, ironically, he married a girl who shared the same childhood nickname. Helen "Skip" Eccles was his devoted wife for more than 50 years. When you telephoned the house and asked for Skip, they would ask, "he-Skip or she-Skip?"

Christ Church, Habitat for Humanity, the physics department at Merrimack College and Lawrence High, where Frank Eccles helped kids with homework, are just a small sampling of the many groups that often called for he-Skip. Community service was very important to him. He gave back often and with his whole heart.

His neighbors also mattered – especially the kids. He was not a big fan of organized sports, preferring pick-up games. Often, he could be seen standing on his porch and simply smiling at the pick-up basketball or street-hockey game taking place near his house.

He walked his dog, Quinze, whom he rescued from the MSPCA shelter, at least three times a day, and this fall's football practice scene at nearby Merrimack College often puzzled him as he walked by.

"Why aren't more kids smiling?" he would say to me.

He spent every summer at his Vermont farmhouse. So he made a lawn-mowing deal with my son, whom he hired for lawn care while he was gone. When Mr. Eccles returned in September, he rang my doorbell and asked my son how much he owed. His car was not even unpacked and he was already on my doorstep.

"You don't have to settle this now," I would tell him and he would look over his glasses and say, "I want to."

Sure, the intellectual astuteness that comes with an Ivy League degree (he went to Princeton) and his Phillips ties were well-known around town, but few people know about his regular-guy side. He started out as an engineer but switched careers, preferring teaching and coaching. He liked how sports helped kids mature, compete and work together. Like any ordinary Andover dad, he enjoyed the sports scene and talked quietly but proudly of his four children.

He played lacrosse in college and coached it while at Phillips. At 80 years old, he still had his favorite stick in his basement, which he excitedly pulled out when lacrosse was the neighborhood's pick-up game of choice.

He knew PA's lacrosse schedule well, and once loaded the neighborhood crew in his car and drove them to a game. He didn't say much – didn't have to – as a gaggle of smiling preteen boys at his favorite school made this day a great one for him.

Things haven't been the same on Brookfield Road since last Wednesday morning, when the 911 call went out across the Andover police scanner. She-Skip couldn't wake her beloved he-Skip.

A piece of Brookfield went dark that morning and that darkness was especially noticeable as Halloween 2005 came to a close. We miss you, Skip, but we'll never forget you on Brookfield Road.

Flexing our brains

Local author recommends exercising the brain to stay 'fit'

By Greta Cuyler

KEEP LEARNING NEW THINGS or your brain cells will atrophy and die, says Corinne Gediman.

Go out and do something you've never done before. Take a ballroom dancing class. Learn a new language. Read a memoir if you usually read novels.

That's Gediman's advice. She's a long-time Andover resident and co-author of a new book called Brainfit.

"The worst thing you can do is live on habit and routine," she says. "It's really about learning new things."

The book is like "Curves – for brains," says Gediman, referring to the Curves fitness routine that uses a circuit of fitness stations for physical health. Brains suffering from non-use show a buildup of proteins on a brain scan, similar to plaque on teeth, she says.

The bad news is that memory peaks at age 30. The good news, says Gediman, is that we can reverse that process with exercise and healthy lifestyle.

Her book is a mix of research information about the brain and mental games and brainteasers to flex and exercise the brain. Just like physical exercise, the brain is a muscle and we must "use it or lose it," says Gediman.

President of the Merrimack Junior Theatre, now in its 18th year, and a corporate trainer for more than 25 years, Gediman is an adult-learning specialist who consults to corporate, national and international firms. She is a member of the American Society of Training and Development, the Alzheimer's Association and the National Council on Aging. Her Brainfit co-author, Francis Crinella, PhD, is a clinical professor of pediatrics and psychiatry and director of the Child Development Center Neuropsychology Laboratory at the University of California at Irvine.

It takes only 10 to 15 minutes a day to begin flexing the brain, says Gediman.

"Some people fear they won't be smart enough to do the exercises," she says. "But brain fitness is not about IQ or intellectual ability. Your brain is not a snob."

Gediman, who is in her early 50s, got the idea to write Brainfit after listening to classmates at a high school reunion talk about their own memory problems and the memory problems of their parents.

Her research shows that people in their 60s are just as capable of learning something new as someone 30 years younger. The difference is it will take longer, require more energy and more effort for the older person.

Research has shown that an older person is better at problem-solving and drawing on experience and judgment, says Gediman.

But as people get older, it can take longer to recall information and we become more susceptible to distractions.

Gediman recommends that people work out physically three to four times a week, in addition to doing mental exercises, because the brain thrives on oxygen and nutrients carried by the blood during exercise.

Gediman herself has seen a difference in her own memory just by engaging in the research and design for her book. "I feel much sharper, much more focused and able to recall information more quickly," she says.

Gediman's next book will focus on brain-based learning for infants and toddlers and the role that parents can play in optimizing a child's learning. Brainfit is available at www.amazon.com and at Barnes & Noble bookstores.

"The worst thing you can do is live on habit and routine. It's really about learning new things."

Saturday & Sunday in the Park

PHOTOS BY BOB DENNIS

Autumn in New England... If you don't like it, just wait a few hours. Or overnight, as local photographer Bob Dennis captured this weekend. These two views of the Park, at Bartlett and Chestnut streets, were taken Saturday, Oct. 29 (above); and Sunday, Oct. 30 (at right). Saturday's slushy snowfall gave way to clear skies and temperatures at least 30 degrees warmer.

Take the doctor's advice

When cardiovascular surgeon George LeMaitre can't find what he needs to get a job done, his solution is simple – he does it himself.

That's what the Andover resident did when he needed a better instrument for the vascular surgeries he performed before his retirement: he designed one himself.

And, when he couldn't persuade a manufacturer to produce the new instrument, he started his own company to do just that.

So, when he thought there was a need for a book about a touchy subject no one else wanted to address, he wrote that book in 1979, How to Choose a Good Doctor.

It's in the same spirit LeMaitre is now bringing out the book's second edition, which updates his solid advice with the added perspective of 20 years of changes in the medical landscape.

A lot has changed since the 1970s and the advent of cost containment at every level of medicine – not all of it good for people's health, in his opinion. Sorting through the sheer complexity is an added health risk when a consumer cannot find a good doctor, he says.

LeMaitre's updated version still offers essential techniques for anyone who wants to know the answers to important questions such as the following:

- What separates the excellent from the mediocre physician?
- How reliable are credentials and reputation in choosing a doctor?
- When should a person seek a second opinion?
- How can someone tell if surgery is really necessary?
- What is it critical to know before taking any pills or drugs?

LeMaitre's book, How to Choose a Good Doctor, is available at the Andover Bookstore, 89R Main St.

– Judith Bright

Dr. George LeMaitre of Andover, a cardiovascular surgeon, wrote How to Choose a Good Doctor back in 1979. LeMaitre is now bringing out the book's second edition, including two dozen years of additional perspective on the state of health care today.

"Moon Tides, Soul Passages," a slide lecture by astrologer Maria Kay Simms, will be given on Sunday, Nov. 6, at 7 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Congregation, 6 Locke St.

The talk, based on Simms' new book by the same name, will show how the powerful lunar cycle can reflect soul passages throughout one's life. "To know one's astrological moon is to gain a greater understanding of one's emotions, deep unconscious memories, and intuition," says Simms. Participants will gain an understanding of the patterns of the moon in their present, as well as in 30-year cycles, with an emphasis on making choices for the future that will enhance spiritual growth.

Simms will use the software that comes with her book to print a one-page report of personal progressed lunar phases for each participant whose birth data she receives prior to Nov. 4. E-mail maria@starcraftseast.com and include name, date of birth, time of birth, and location of birth (city and state). The reports will be available on the night of the lecture at the registration desk. Requests received later than Nov. 4 will be honored only as time permits. Having one's own report in hand will aid participants in relating material in the presentation to their own experience.

The lecture is part of the eleventh annual Women's Spirituality Series, a program offered by the Adult Education Committee of the Unitarian Universalist Congregation in Andover. The lecture is free and open to the public; facilities are wheelchair accessible.

Citizens Bank of Massachusetts is providing 9,000 soccer balls to participants in the Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association. The fall initiative will reach 98 Massachusetts communities where Citizens does business. In Andover, 50 soccer balls were donated to coaches of 5- to 8-year-old players, to be used as game or practice balls.

The soccer balls are green and white and they feature the Citizens logo. Deliveries began in September and will continue throughout the fall. Citizens employees served as "Soccer Ambassadors" in their local communities throughout Massachusetts to help distribute the balls during the games. In Andover, Citizens Bank colleague Mike Torrielli led distribution efforts.

West Parish Church invites the public to join its members for "Healing Winds, Healing Spirits," a healing service in the West Parish Chapel, 129 Reservation Road on Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. According to organizers, "Healing takes many forms. Sometimes it can be quite dramatic, but often it occurs in small steps as we listen for the still, small voice of God that speaks to us in our pain, loneliness, and sorrow. All are welcome."

For more information, call Betsy Collins, West Parish Church office administrator, at 978-475-3528.

The contemporary gospel group Confirmation will be in full concert at Andover Baptist Church, 7 Central St., next Sunday, Nov. 13 at 4 p.m. The Rev. Lyndon A. Myers is the pastor.

According to organizers, "Confirmation is affirmation. Confirmation is validation. Confirmation is living proof of God's presence in this world. Confirmation is a music ministry of contemporary Christ Church will hold its 77th annual "Holiday Faire" on Saturday, Nov. 19, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at 25 Central St.

Come and enjoy an old-fashioned New England Craft Fair where organizers say shoppers will find everything they need for their holiday entertaining and celebrations. At the fair this year, they will find a wide selection of gourmet goodies, floral arrangements to brighten homes throughout the season, and pre-wrapped teacher and hostess gifts to ease the stress of gift-giving. Parishioners have handmade knits, cards, ornaments, and festive table linens. Professional crafters bring their creations including popular beaded jewelry, nativity sets ready to order from the Holy Land, and more. An addition to the fair this year is the first annual Gingerbread House Contest. The contest is open to families, kids, pros and all who feel creative; details can be obtained by calling the Glebe House at the church at 978-475-0529.

GIRLS SWIM & DIVE

today," said Fitzgerald. "I can still do some tweaking to make it even stronger - but this one was close to our best."

"There were several awesome races - tremendous matchups between two, three and sometimes four outstanding swimmers," added Fitzgerald.

Senior All-Scholastics Candice Peak and Caitlin Doherty were four-time victors, each capturing two individual events and swimming a leg on a pair of victorious relays.

Peak was tops in the 50 free (25.18) and 100 back (1:00.25), while Doherty touched first in the 200 IM (2:10.46) and 100 butterfly (56.31).

Chelmsford's Amanda Cecere provided a strong challenge in two of those races, finishing just behind Peak in the 50 free (25.40) and Doherty in the 100 fly (56.68).

Doherty and Peak swam the third and anchor legs on the 200 medley relay, teaming with Erin McAuliffe and Melissa Alois to win by more than four seconds in 1:56.06.

Peak also anchored the 200 free relay that beat Chelmsford by a minuscule 7/100ths of a second (1:45.21 to 1:45.28). Also on that squad for AHS were Kristi Korsberg, Ellen Cody and Tiffany Petzold.

Doherty brought home a three-second victory in the 400 free relay, the season-best 3:45.96 time achieved with Korsberg, Cody and Petzold on the first three legs.

Other individual winners for Andover were Tiffany Petzold in the 100 free (56.40) and Alois in the 100 breaststroke (1:12.34).

Ellen Cody gave Chelmsford's two-event winner and projected state champ

Katelyn Martin a run in the 500 free.

The Magnus Aquatic Group (formerly Merrimack Valley Pirates) teammates, friendly rivals during the high school season, were only 1 1/2 seconds apart with Martin winning in 5:04.78 and Cody second in a personal-best 5:06.15.

Cody never led but was never far behind her much taller (about one foot) opponent.

"It was a breakthrough race for Ellen," said coach Fitzgerald. "We worked really hard in practice to motivate her. We wanted her to push Katelyn - really go for it - and if Martin was going to beat her it should be with Ellen swimming her best time."

Other Lady Warrior runners-up were Korsberg in the 200 free (1:57.21), as she also pushed the Lions' Martin (1:56.93) to the limit, Tiffany Petzold (200 IM, 2:15.38), Ginny Gibson who tied in the 100 free (58.54), McAuliffe (100 back, 1:02.71) and Cassandra Valler (100 breast, 1:14.94).

The 200 medley relay of Allison Alwan, Valler, Margot Ryan and Jen McDonald finished second (2:00.43).

Alwan capped the sweep of the 100 back, touching third in 1:17.40, and other thirds were captured by Cody (200 free, 2:01.32), Gibson (50 free, sectional-cut 26.99) and Korsberg (100 fly, 1:01.38).

Third place in the 200 free relay went to McDonald, Ryan, Rita Gillan and Gibson (1:51.08), while the 400 free foursome of Alwan, Gibson, McAuliffe and Jen Geary placed third (4:04.28).

Contributing fourths were Geary in both the 200 IM (2:20.90) and 500 free (5:29.39), Alwan (200 free, 2:06.49), McDonald (50 free, sectional-cut 27.14), and Ryan (100 fly, 1:05.09).

Fifths were secured by Jenny Meltz (500 free, 5:37.76), and Alexa Moccia (100 breast, 1:19.91).

Freshman Katie O'Connell placed a strong second for coach Becky Pierce's one-meter divers, chalking up a personal and team season-high 215.30 points.

Capt. Michelle Guy was fourth (166.95) and Jillian Bargar fifth (150.80).

Chelmsford's Rachael Martinez, who has a legitimate shot at North Sectional and State diving titles, won with 241.95 points.

"This was (the annual) Senior Day for both teams and the spirit was terrific," said Fitzgerald.

"All the seniors were presented with roses, the underclassmen made T-shirts for them and the coaches gave a short speech about each one."

"All of the houses, including mine, were TP-ed and cars were painted blue and gold (washable paint)," said Fitzgerald.

"The team had a big pasta dinner at the Peaks' home on Thursday night."

"Senior Day is everything high school sports should be about. It's a slice of normalcy around the usual craziness."

The nine AHS seniors this year are Caitlin Doherty, Candice Peak, Jen McDonald, Rita Gillan, Amy Kasparian, Gabi Barnett, Amanda Terrotola, Capt. Michelle Guy and Capt. Danielle Perry.

Fitzgerald also lauded the support of Andover swim-team fans.

"We have a great commitment from them. The stands are always packed with parents, grandparents, brothers and sisters. They yell very loud - which is good."

"With second heats in most events every girl gets to swim. We're fortunate to be able to do that - and I think it's appreciated. We're always set up to try and win the meet - but all the kids feel like contributors which is important."

GIRLS SOCCER

The Andover High girls varsity soccer team, forced to play three games in three days and four in five because of rainouts and the MIAA Tournament cutoff date, whitewashed Methuen (4-0), tied Central Catholic (0-0) and beat Haverhill (4-0) in Merrimack Valley Conference action.

In a non-leaguer at Lovely Field against Danvers, which also served as the annual "Senior Night," the Lady Warriors dropped a tough 1-0 decision to the Lady Falcons.

AHS, which has qualified for the Division 1 North Tournament for the 19th time in the last 20 years, finished the regular season at 10-3-7 overall and 9-1-3 in Division 1 of the MVC.

The locals tied Billerica (13-2-3, 9-1-3 MVC) for first in the MVC 1 standings, both with 21 points, which is fitting since the rivals battled to a pair of 1-1 deadlocks in head-to-head meetings.

This is the 14th conference championship (two shared) in the past 19 years for Andover. Billerica has won the other five.

The seven ties are believed to be a school single-season record in girls soccer.

Four of the stalemates were 1-1 and the other three 0-0.

AHS has outscored its 20 opponents, 46-12, posting 11 shutouts and allowing more than one goal only twice.

Loschi countdown

Co-head coach Dick Loschi has 298 career wins in his march towards milestone victory No. 300.

His full 20-year, won-lost-tied mark is 298-82-38.

All-Conference

Emily Pallotta has been voted the 2005 Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 Player of the Year.

Lady Warriors joining her on the All-Conference Team are sophomore defender Erica Leber and senior forward Jen Hagopian.

MVC All-Star Team selections from AHS are senior defenders Maura Daniels, Jessica Ragnio, senior midfielder Jessica Ragnio and junior keeper Becky Cairns.

Andover also received the Team Sportsmanship Award for MVC Division 1.

Senior Night

Prior to the Danvers game, roses were presented to the nine senior players, who received special pre-game introductions with their parents and a short comment on each athlete from teacher/equipment manager/PA announcer Bill Drummond.

The AHS 12th graders are Capt. Emily Pallotta, Capt. Jen Hagopian, Jessica Ragnio, Jessica Ragnio, Maura Daniels, Ally Brown, Amy Boxell, Katie Lundquist and Sarah Doucette.

In a traditional move, all nine seniors also started and played the first 10 minutes of the game.

Tourney pairings

Pairings for the single-elimination MIAA Division 1 North Tournament are scheduled for release today (Thursday).

All-Star Game

The MVC All-Star Game, scheduled for last Sunday afternoon at Andover's Lovely Field, was cancelled because league teams had too many makeup games (rainouts) to cram in before the tourney cutoff date.

Leading scorers

Emily Pallotta tops the AHS point parade after 20 games with 10 goals and 15 assists for 25 points. Her four-year totals are 36 goals and 54 assists as she makes a run at 100 career points.

Jen Hagopian has 10 goals and two assists, Rikki Sartor five goals, seven assists and Jess Morrow five goals, three assists.

Andover 4 Methuen 0

Senior forward and Capt. Jen Hagopian recorded the team's first hat trick of the season, netting the final three goals of this home game as the Lady Warriors snapped a five-game winless streak (two losses, three ties) during which they had scored only three goals.

"It was nice to break out of the scoring drought," said co-head coach Loschi. "And this being the first of four games in five days - it was also good to have an opportunity to rest some of the starters and play the reserves."

Jess Morrow opened the scoring at 12:58 of the first half with the assist to Capt. Emily Pallotta.

Pallotta lifted a direct kick over the defensive wall from 30 yards out. Morrow, moving in on the left side, used her leg to deflect the ball out of mid-air and into the net.

The first of Hagopian's three goals made it 2-0 at 32:20. Pallotta sent a through ball between defenders and Hagopian's low, hard shot broke through the Methuen keeper's hands and legs.

Hagopian added a pair of insurance goals just 84 seconds apart in the final 10 minutes of the game.

Morrow pushed a pass from the top of the box for another low shot by Hagopian at the 30:50 mark.

The trick was completed at 32:14 after Sarah LoMedico lofted a long ball to Hagopian, who outraced the Methuen defense and fired a rocket shot to the upper right (farside) corner.

AHS keeper Camille Fantini posted three saves for her second solo shutout and the team's ninth overall.

Loschi and co-head coach Meghan Lynch lauded the defensive play of senior midfielders Jess Ragnio and Amy Boxell, senior stopper Jess Ragnio and junior sweeper Chrissy Peracchi.

Andover also defeated Methuen 4-0 on Sept. 22.

Danvers 1 Andover 0

Visiting Division 2 North Tournament qualifier Danvers broke the scoreless tie during the 19th minute of the second half, when left wing Chrissy Barrows punched in a crossing pass for the game's only goal.

AHS finished with a 7-4 shooting edge, as keeper Becky Cairns made three saves for the Lady Warriors and Caroline Moholland had seven stops for the Northeastern Conference Falcons.

"It was a high-quality game against a high-quality opponent," said coach Loschi. "We really did have a territorial edge. We played well offensively - but didn't get any breaks - and made just the one mistake on defense."

Cited for strong efforts on Senior Night were forward Jen Hagopian, junior midfielder Sarah LoMedico and sweeper Maura Daniels.

"The feeling after this one was to put it behind us and focus on winning the league title by beating Central and Haverhill," said Loschi.

Andover 0 Central Catholic 0

AHS, needing a (two-point) win to keep its hopes of an outright championship alive, outplayed the Raiders and did everything except score the one goal needed.

"We put everything out there," said coach Loschi. "We outshot them, 16-3, and it was disappointing to come away from that kind of performance without the victory."

Goalkeeper Becky Cairns recorded her fourth solo shutout and senior forward Ally Brown played a "fantastic game" according to coaches Loschi and Meghan Lynch.

"Their keeper came up big," said Loschi. "It was a high-intensity game between two very quick, mobile and aggressive teams."

"The Billerica kids (co-champs) were on the sidelines watching - knowing if we tied or lost they had a least a share of the title."

Tourney-bound Central, beaten 4-1 by Andover in the season opener for both teams on Sept. 8, is coached by former Lady Warriors' standout player Anne (Murnane) Marinaro.

Andover 4 Haverhill 0

Playing their third game in three days - the Lady Warriors were understandably weary but driven by the knowledge a win meant a share of the MVC 1 title.

"The girls were exhausted," said coach Loschi after the Tuesday afternoon victory. "The legs were very heavy."

"But it was a nice way to end the regular season - especially after putting out major efforts the previous two games against strong opponents and coming away with just one point."

Junior forward Rikki Sartor netted the first of her two goals - and the only tally of the first half - unassisted with just one minute left before the break.

The locals clung to the 1-0 lead until the Hillies' defense crumbled at the end, AHS adding three goals less than five minutes apart in the final 6:03.

Sartor connected again at 33:57 of the second half, blasting a 20 yard shot to the short-side post after Jen Hagopian moved out of the box and pushed a backcourt pass.

It was Hagopian's turn just 43 seconds later (34:40), as she connected with her team co-high 10th goal after Emily Pallotta lifted a long ball over the Haverhill defense.

Hagopian won the race to the ball - as the Hillie keeper came out - and tapped a shot into the open net.

Sophomore forward Emily Barker, slowed by leg surgery in the off-season, scored her first varsity goal with 90 seconds left (38:30) on a header off a right-wing crossing pass by Ally Brown.

Camille Fantini went the route in net for her third solo shutout and the team's 11th.

Also cited for excellent play were forwards Jess Morrow and sophomore Catherine LoMedico, along with midfielders Jess Ragnio and junior Sarah LoMedico.

BOYS SOCCER

The Andover High boys varsity soccer team earned a share of its second straight Merrimack Valley Conference Division 1 title, closing at 10-2-1 in MVC Division 1 for 21 points.

Lowell, with a 4-0 white-wash of Haverhill in its MVC finale, grabbed a piece of its fourth crown in five years with a 9-1-3 mark for 21 points.

Dracut, which cost AHS the title outright by nipping the Golden Warriors 1-0 this past weekend, was also in the hunt to the end before finishing two points back at 8-2-3.

AHS handed Lowell its only conference loss (5-2), while Dracut gave the locals both their MVC defeats. Billerica and Lowell bested Dracut.

Andover, which saw its seven-game win streak snapped in the recent 1-0 loss to Dracut, also blanked Central Catholic, 4-0, and tripped up Danvers, 3-1, in the first-ever meeting of traditional Eastern Mass. soccer powers.

Andover, 13-3-1 overall, has outscored the opposition, 47-15, while registering eight shutouts.

AHS ROUNDUP

nemesis Ipswich, a team that always gives the locals fits, was re-set as the regular season finale and was played yesterday afternoon (Wednesday) after Townsman presstime.

All-Conference

AHS junior striker Nate Baker has been named the 2005 MVC Player of the Year.

Baker and senior midfielder/Capt. Jason Sheldon were selected for the MVC All-Conference Team.

MVC All-Stars from Andover are senior midfielder Tyler Carroll, senior midfielder Tyler Hyslip, senior midfielder Mike Baldwin, senior center-defender Steve Twomey and senior keeper Chris Palmieri.

All-Star Game

The annual MVC All-Star Game, scheduled last Sunday afternoon at Lovely Field in Andover, was cancelled because league teams had conflicts with makeup games.

Tourney pairings

Pairings for the single-elimination MIAA Division 1 North Tournament were drawn today (Thursday).

Leading scorers

Nate Baker was the top scorer through 17 games with 16 goals and six assists, while Jason Sheldon has 12 goals, seven assists.

Baker has put together five- and three-goal games down the stretch against top competition.

Andover 4

Central Catholic 0

This victory, which clinched at least a tie for the MVC 1 title, saw AHS score twice in each half and ride four different marksmen to the makeup-game triumph at the Greater Lawrence Tech field.

"We knew Central could be dangerous - and we wanted to keep our fate in our own hands," said AHS head coach Mike Wartman.

"It was a very even game at the beginning - until we started to create some scoring opportunities."

"We moved the ball well, played solid defense and showed good intensity. I was pleased with our focus," said coach Wartman.

Nate Baker opened the scoring during the 15th minute, assist to Jason Sheldon, and then Sheldon connected 10 minutes later from inside the box with the setup to Mike Baldwin.

Junior midfielder Norbert Guery contributed an unassisted insurance goal midway through the second half - producing a nice individual effort that started with a steal at midfield.

Guery closed in on Central keeper John Bernat before firing a 20 yard shot into the net.

Junior middle Craig Massey capped the scoring with five minutes left in the game, beating a CCHS defender in the penalty area and booting a low shot inside the far post.

Tyler Carroll was credited with the assist.

Chris Palmieri played the first 60 minutes in net, making five saves, and Jeff Salvesen preserved the combined shutout with four stops in the final 20 minutes. It marked the third time the pair teamed for a shutout this fall.

Wartman also lauded the efforts of midfielders Amir Yazdi, junior Jared Kuipers and defender Sam Ball.

The triumph completed a season series sweep - Andover previously blanking Central 6-0 in the Sept. 8 opener.

Dracut 1

Andover 0

The Middies, the only conference team to beat Andover this season, did it for the second time (2-0 at AHS on Sept. 22).

Host Dracut's Kyle Dolliver scored 14 minutes into the first half - and MVC Keeper of the Year Jared Fitzgerald came through with a solid 10-save performance to shut the Golden Warriors down again.

"He (Fitzgerald) made a big difference in both games," said coach Wartman. "We played well but had trouble trying to figure out how to score on him. We didn't capitalize and he came up with some key saves."

"Our kids played with poise and composure - especially in the second half when we took control and our defense kept them without a dangerous (scoring) chance."

Because it was Dracut's "Senior Day," the game was moved from the regular soccer field to the football stadium, which has bigger bleachers and a public address system for introductions during the pre-game ceremonies.

"The field wasn't slippery - but the grass was pretty chewed up and the narrower width worked to their advantage," said coach Wartman.

"It (size of field) hurt us because our style is to spread things out. They use a more condensed and direct approach.

"We did have some good setups on crosses - and Nate Baker hit the post with a shot."

"I was proud of the way our kids hung in and carried play in the second half," said Wartman.

AHS keeper Chris Palmieri finished with six saves as the visitors held a 10-7 overall shooting advantage.

The coach also cited outstanding play by senior defender Sam Ball, senior midfielder Tyler Hyslip, center-defenders Steve Twomey and Capt. Greg Lewis, and junior outside back Kevin Twomey.

This marked the fourth time Andover was shut out (Lowell, St. John's Prep and twice by Dracut).

Danvers 1

Player of the Year Nate Baker produced his second hat trick of the season, netting all three AHS goals as the Golden Warriors upended Northeastern League title challenger and 2003 State Division 2 finalist Danvers in the non-leaguer at Lovely Field.

"It was nice to see a strong team effort - especially coming off a tough loss (Dracut) the day before," said coach Wartman. "A lot of players saw game time - and when we substituted there was no dropoff in the quality of play and no loss of continuity."

Baker opened the scoring 10 minutes into the game by converting a crossing pass from the right flank by Pierre Hage.

Mike Baldwin set up Baker's second goal 20 minutes later as AHS took a 2-0 lead into the half.

The Falcons made it 2-1 early in the second half, but Baker added the insurance on a breakaway after the steal of an attempted through ball at midfield. Baldwin and Amir Yazdi both notched assists.

Jeff Salvesen went the distance in net and made 12 saves, while the Danvers' keeper was credited with 14 stops as Andover managed a 17-13 shooting edge.

Danvers had some tough luck as two shots hit the crossbar and post.

Wartman lauded the strong play of defenders Sam Ball, Kevin Twomey, Eugene Hsieh and Jared Kuipers along with senior midfielder/forward Yazdi and senior forward Joe Savoca.

Savoca returned to action after recently aggravating a collarbone injury suffered earlier this season.

GIRLS VOLLEYBALL

The Andover High girls varsity volleyball team, rebounding from its extra-tough 3-2 loss to Chelmsford, finished the regular season with a split of the final two matches.

The Lady Warriors blanked Central Catholic, 3-0, in the league finale at the annual Merrimack Valley Conference Volleyball Night and then dropped another 3-2 decision to undefeated Melrose in a non-league makeup match two nights later at the Dunn Gym.

Those results left AHS at 16-4 overall - including 13-2 in the conference where the locals shared the Division 1 title with Chelmsford.

It was the fifth MVC title won or shared by Andover, whose other championships came in 1991, 1998, 1999 and 2000.

Head coach George Sullivan also boosted his career won-lost record to a flashy 280-131

The Lady Warriors, who qualified for the Division 1 North Tournament for the 18th time in the last 20 years, posted 14 of their 16 regular season wins by 3-0 whitewashes.

All-Conference

Senior middle hitter and Capt. Samantha Kerivan was voted co-Player of the Year (with Chelmsford's Jenn Byrne) in Division 1 of the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Kerivan, senior setter and Capt. Jen Merinder and senior setter and Capt. Kelly O'Dea were named to the All-Conference Team.

Senior middle hitter Sara Kelleher and junior back-row defender Allie Navarro were selected as MVC All-Stars.

George Sullivan also earned his fifth Coach of the Year Award.

MIAA Tournament

The single-elimination MIAA Division 1 North Tournament pairings were scheduled for release yesterday (Wednesday), after Townsman presstime, and the guessing was AHS would be seeded No. 3 and would open with a first-round match at home tomorrow night (Friday) at 7 p.m. at the Dunn Gym (opponent TBD).

Lawrence (19-1) and Peabody (18-2) will be the top two seeds, based solely on won-lost record, while other qualifiers at presstime included MVC 1 co-champ Chelmsford (15-5), Reading, Medford and Lowell.

Teams on the bubble - that needed wins earlier this week to make it - included Billerica, Everett and Revere.

Team leaders

Through 20 regular season matches, the Lady Warriors have a team hitting percentage of 82.4, a serving percentage of 89.0 and a passing/defensive percentage of 78.0.

Samantha Kerivan owns a team-high 189 kills and Jen Merinder has 119.

Tops in serving percentage are Kenvan and Meghan Thomann, both at 91.0, while Allie Navarro leads with 55 service aces and Merinder has 52.

The best individual passing percentages are held by Merinder (89.0), Navarro (82.1) and Thomann (78.0).

MVC Volleyball Night

Central Catholic 0

Returning to the "scene of the crime," Chelmsford High's Conrad Gym where they lost a heartbreaker 48 hours earlier, the Lady Warriors showed no ill effects on MVC Volleyball Night as they crushed Central 25-13, 25-20, 25-11.

"I was concerned about going back into the 'Lions' den' so soon," said coach Sullivan. "We never play well over there - and last year we got clocked by Central on Volleyball Night (2-0) after beating them in the regular season (2-0)."

"This time we responded well. It was one of our best efforts of the year."

The win (and title) also made a pair of nice pre-birthday (one day early) presents for Sullivan.

The locals finished 79-for-96 hitting (82 percent), 63-for-66 serving (96 percent) and 109-for-135 passing (81 percent), with 37 kills and seven aces.

Samantha Kerivan, performing like a co-Player of the Year, went 19-for-23 hitting with nine kills, 9-for-9 serving and 18-for-22 passing.

Jen Merinder had a monster match with a team-high four aces and co-high 10 kills, finishing 18-for-18 hitting, 17-for-18 serving and 27-for-32 passing.

AHS ROUNDUP

Junior middle hitter Heather Arvidson produced a personal season-high 10 kills while going 13-for-15 hitting and 4-for-4 passing. "Heather was banging the ball all night," said Sullivan. "It was awesome. The way we want her to play all the time."

Sophomore Meghan Thomann went 21-for-21 serving, with one ace, and 8-for-11 passing. Kelly O'Dea was strong all-around with 7-for-10 hitting, 9-for-9 serving, 25-for-29 passing, one kill and one ace.

Allie Navarro contributed 5-for-5 hitting, two kills, 3-for-4 serving, one ace and 19-for-25 passing.

Karen McSweeney finished 8-for-9 hitting, with four kills, and others who played well were Kasey O'Dea (6-for-8 hitting), Ashley Ahern (4-for-5 serving) and Andrea Kurkul (3-for-8 hitting, one kill).

Sara Kelleher was ill and missed the MVC finale.

There were no JV prelims.

Melrose 3

Andover 2

The locals came very close to spoiling visiting Division 2 North Tournament top seed Melrose's perfect record – but the Red Raiders (20-0) proved their mettle with the come-from-behind victory at the Dunn Gym.

Melrose won the first game, 25-21, before Andover came back for 25-23 and 25-22 victories to take a 2-1 lead.

Melrose squared the match with a 25-14 romp in game 4, and closed out the victory 15-11 in the fifth.

"We stepped out for a long coffee break in the fourth game," said coach Sullivan. "But the fifth game was back-and-forth."

"Melrose has two very good middle hitters, an excellent setter and one strong outside hitter. They also play outstanding defense. They're legit."

Andover finished with 49 kills and eight aces, going 127-for-173 hitting (74 percent), 82-for-92 serving (89 percent) and 191-for-256 passing (75 percent).

Samantha Kerivan, still playing with a touch of the flu, hammered out 15 kills while going 35-for-51 hitting, 12-for-12 serving and 40-for-52 passing. She also delivered one ace.

Jen Merinder contributed six kills, 19-for-24 hitting, four aces, 20-for-23 serving and 47-for-57 passing.

Sara Kelleher returned, after a one match absence, to post five kills, 15-for-27 hitting and 4-for-5 passing.

Allie Navarro and Kelly O'Dea produced four kills each.

Navarro was also 9-for-10 hitting, 14-for-19 serving with two aces, 39-for-55 passing while O'Dea went 10-for-11 hitting, 17-for-17 serving with one ace and 30-for-43 passing.

Other strong hitters were Heather Arvidson, 19-for-26 with nine kills, and Karen McSweeney a season-best 14-for-16 with six kills.

Also contributing in the marathon five-gamer were Meghan Thomann (14-for-15 serving, 17-for-20 passing), Andrea Kurkul (5-for-7 hitting, 2-for-3 passing), Kasey O'Dea (4-for-4 serving, 2-for-2 passing), Ashley Ahern (4-for-6 passing) and Kerry Hill.

The Andover JV-A team improved to 18-1 with a 2-0 victory in the prelim, 25-19 and 25-18.

EARLIER MATCHES

Andover 3

Haverhill 1

This penultimate regular season home match was also the Lady Warriors' annual "Senior Night."

The underclassmen decorated the Dunn Gym – and special recognition was accorded the eight AHS seniors in the form of flowers, pictures and spotlighted introductions of athletes and their parents.

The eight 12th graders are Capt. Jen Merinder, Capt. Samantha Kerivan, Capt. Kelly O'Dea, Sara Kelleher, Andrea Kurkul, Ashley Ahern, Kasey O'Dea and Kerry Hill.

Flowers were also presented to the senior players from Haverhill.

"At Notre Dame earlier in the week they gave our seniors flowers. We liked the idea so we duplicated it with Haverhill," said coach Sullivan.

Andover won by game scores of 25-13, 25-9, 21-25, 25-15.

"We got lazy and complacent in the third game," said Sullivan. "We fell behind 7-0 and never caught up."

For the match, AHS was 100-for-124 hitting (81 percent), 88-for-94 serving (94 percent) and 152-for-174 passing (87 percent) with 37 kills and seven aces.

Samantha Kerivan, Sara Kelleher, Jen Merinder and Kelly O'Dea combined for 29 kills to power the attack at net.

Kerivan went 31-for-35 hitting with 11 kills, Kelleher 22-for-26 with seven kills, Merinder 17-for-22 with six kills and O'Dea 11-for-12 with five kills.

Kerivan, a.k.a. Special K, added 10-for-10 serving and 28-for-32 passing. Merinder contributed 31-for-35 passing, 13-for-14 serving with two aces and O'Dea 32-for-34 passing and 22-for-24 serving with three aces.

Allie Navarro finished 11-for-13 serving, 3-for-4 hitting and 30-for-35 passing with one ace and one kill.

Andrea Kurkul was 7-for-9 hitting, with three kills, and 4-for-5 passing.

Meghan Thomann, at less than 100 percent (sick), still went 19-for-20 serving, 8-for-10 passing and 1-for-2 hitting.

Ashley Ahern was 9-for-9 serving, with one ace, and 7-for-10 passing.

Also playing well for the Lady Warriors were Karen McSweeney (4-for-5 hitting, two kills), Kerry Hill (one kill, 4-for-4 passing), Kasey O'Dea (3-for-3 serving), Heather Arvidson (3-for-5 hitting, one kill), Caroline O'Malley (2-for-2 hitting) and Katie Fionte.

With coach Stephanie Brown away at a wedding, Sullivan did double duty and directed the JV-A squad to a 2-0 romp by 25-9 and 25-18 scores.

Shayna Orent, who will be elevated to the varsity for the tournament, went 16-for-16 serving with six aces and 4-for-5 hitting with one kill.

Hollen Clark finished 5-for-5 hitting, with three kills, and 3-for-4 serving with three aces. Other standouts included Annie Tibbitts (8-for-9 hitting), Annalise Mesler (3-for-3 hitting, one kill), Amy Philpott (3-for-3 hitting), Katie Fionte (2-for-4 hitting, one kill), Kyla McRoy (6-for-6 serving, one ace), Elise Korte (4-for-4 serving), Ariel Kuykendall (4-for-6 serving, one ace), Jessie Poe (2 aces) and Kim Crawford (defense).

Coach Dave Kuykendall's JV-B team rallied for a 2-1 victory by 17-25, 25-9, 15-7 scores.

Lauren Kirwin went 13-for-14 serving, with eight aces, while Sarah Thiele (two kills) was cited for her passing and hustle. Nikki Foxworth provided a defensive spark.

Chelmsford 3

Andover 2

With a 14-11 lead in the fifth-and-deciding game – Andover appeared to have victory in hand with three match points.

But Chelmsford captain Molly Shanahan proceeded to serve out the game and match, scoring five straight points for a 16-14 overtime win as the Lions rallied for a marathon come-from-behind 20-25, 25-17, 25-18, 18-25, 16-14 triumph.

"We were playing well before making three straight errors – all bad passes – to let them back into the fifth game when it was 14-11," lamented coach Sullivan. "Then we had a bad set on their 15th point – and the winner was a hard, sharp-angle block that looked playable but fell between a couple of our kids."

"I think some of our girls let the crowd noise get to them when they were serving. It's something you have to learn to block out."

"Chelmsford improved a lot over the three weeks since we played them," said Sullivan. "In the first three games we were hitting soft – instead of going after them with hard drives."

"We've won this year by out-hitting our opponents. We got back into that in the fourth and fifth games – but then started tipping the ball at the end."

"We've got to regroup. Put this one behind us and hopefully learn from it," added Sullivan.

The final stats were strong as AHS went 137-for-162 hitting (85 percent), 88-for-98 serving (90 percent) and 204-for-260 passing (79 percent), with 44 kills and five aces.

Samantha Kerivan, one of several Andover girls playing with a touch of the flu, went 39-for-43 hitting with a match-high 14 kills. She was also 34-for-46 passing and 7-for-8 serving.

Jen Merinder contributed 11 kills, 30-for-32 hitting, two aces, 10-for-12 serving and 30-for-41 passing.

"Jen played really tough in the fourth and fifth games," said Sullivan.

Sara Kelleher had seven kills, 27-for-32 hitting and 7-for-9 passing.

Andrea Kurkul added five kills, 13-for-21 hitting and 12-for-14 passing.

Heather Arvidson was solid at net with four kills and 10-for-12 hitting.

Allie Navarro was busy with 54-for-69 passing, 15-for-19 serving and 4-for-6 hitting with one kill.

Kelly O'Dea finished 10-for-13 hitting, with two kills, 13-for-13 serving and 37-for-45 passing.

Meghan Thomann, also battling a cold, went 27-for-28 serving with three aces, 14-for-16 passing and 12-for-2 hitting.

Ashley Ahern had 14-for-16 serving and 6-for-8 passing.

Kasey O'Dea also contributed with 8-for-9 passing, 2-for-2 serving and 1-for-1 hitting.

Chelmsford leaders included fifth-game serving heroine Molly Shanahan (10 service points, 15 kills, three blocks), Stephanie Clapp (10 points), Jenn Byrne (21 kills, 10 digs, seven blocks), Hayley Comeau (39 assists, 16 digs, three solo blocks, two kills), Laura Westland (nine digs, eight kills, seven points) and sophomore libero Shannon Brodie (12 digs, seven points).

"We only missed three serves the entire match and that was huge," said Chelmsford coach Dana DeFilippo. "Shanahan came up big at the service line. She usually doesn't play back row so that – plus the digging and hitting of the other girls in game five – were also key factors."

Chelmsford improved to 14-4 overall.

Andover defeated Chelmsford 3-1 earlier this season (Oct. 1), and the only other MVC loss for both teams was to Division 2 champ Lawrence High (19-1).

Andover JV-A moved to 17-1 with a 2-0 prelim sweep by scores of 25-22 and 25-23.

Leading the way were Hollen Clark (9-for-10 hitting, two kills), Elise Korte (6-for-7 serving, two aces), Karen Chretien (9-for-10 serving, one ace, 4-for-5 hitting) and Shayna Orent (12-for-13 hitting, two kills).

Kim Crawford was outstanding on defense, and also went 11-for-12 serving with one ace, while Annie Tibbitts was 9-for-10 hitting with three kills.

The JV-B crew (8-5) fell 2-0, with Chelmsford posting 25-23 and 25-21 wins.

For Andover, Aline Dargie went 5-for-5 serving, Emily Hsieh 8-for-9 serving with four aces and Daria Tchessalova 6-for-7 with four aces.

Andover 3

NDA-Tyngsboro 0

Other AHS standouts included Kasey O'Dea (3-for-3 serving, 3-for-3 passing), Caroline O'Malley (2-for-3 passing, 2-for-4 hitting), Kerry Hill (defense) and Katie Fionte (2-for-2 serving, 2-for-2 passing).

The Lady Warriors finished 69-for-87 hitting (79 percent) with 28 kills, a sizzling 64-for-66 serving (97 percent) with seven aces, and 95-for-119 passing (84 percent).

The JV-A crew won the prelim, 2-0, with 25-14 and 25-18 game scores.

Hollen Clark went 4-for-5 hitting with two kills, Shayna Orent 10-for-11 with four kills, Annalise Mesler 5-for-5 with 3 kills and Karen Chretien 5-for-6.

Top servers were Orent (14-for-15, five aces), Kyla McRoy (12-for-12, one ace), Kim Crawford (5-for-5, two aces), Clark (5-for-7, three aces) and Chretien (6-for-6, two aces).

Amy Philpott and Lauren Kirwin also played well for AHS, which served at 95 percent (57-for-60) and hit at 76 percent.

CROSS COUNTRY

The Andover High girls cross country team placed three runners in the top 20, led by sophomore Casey Harrison who finished 9th, as the Lady Warriors earned a solid 4th in a 10-school field at the 2005 Merrimack Valley Conference Cross Country Championship Meet held at Chelmsford High.

In the boys division, junior Peter Shaw was 19th overall as he led AHS to 8th place.

The local harriers also completed their MVC dual-meet season several days earlier, going out on a high note as both teams defeated host Dracut.

The girls prevailed, 22-37, and the boys rolled to a 15-48 triumph.

Those results left the Andover girls at 7-3 overall and the boys at 2-7.

Schedule

The State Coaches Invitational (this Saturday, Nov. 5), Eastern Mass. Class/Division Meet (Nov. 12) and All-State Championship Meet (Nov. 19) — all scheduled for Franklin Park in Boston — will conclude the 2005 campaign.

MVC Championship Meet

The youthful AHS girls squad scored 105 points to trail only champ Haverhill High (49), runner-up Chelmsford (57) and Billerica (87).

Casey Harrison covered Chelmsford's 3.1-mile course in 20 minutes, 15 seconds on the way to 9th place in a field of 68 runners.

Eight of the top nine finishers were underclassmen, but the only other MVC sophomore with a better time was Alyssa Pisarik of Chelmsford (4th place, 19:40).

Junior Maggie Cosgrove ran strong with a 15th-place finish in 20:46, while sophomore Mary Burke was 19th in 21:08.

Also figuring in the team total were freshman Shannon Cooney, 26th in 21:32, and senior Courtney Hamer 36th in 22:07.

Others competing for the locals were sophomore Jen George and senior Christy Nigh, the former 43rd in 22:40 and the latter 51st in 23:13.

Haverhill High junior Colleen McNaughton won the race in 19:09.

Although they showed good balance, with four runners finishing less than one minute apart, the Andover boys found the going a bit tougher after chalking up 210 points.

Methuen edged Haverhill, 54-58, for the team title.

Peter Shaw's 19th place — in a group of 67 competitors — was achieved with a 17-minute, 19-second time for 3.1 miles. That left him just a half-minute shy of a top-10 finish.

Senior Peter Brown was 43rd in 18:09, and bunched not far behind for the Golden Warriors were junior Sayo Maldari (45th, 18:10), junior Frank Perrone (51st, 18:44), sophomore David Easton (52nd, 18:53), senior Alex McCargai (53rd, 18:54) and senior Will Galebach (55th, 19:07).

REGULAR SEASON
Andover girls 22
Dracut 37

The visiting Lady Warriors finished 1-2 and grabbed seven of the top 10 places on the way to the convincing victory in the MVC regular season finale.

Casey Harrison won the 2.8-mile race in 20 minutes, six seconds, crossing just eight seconds ahead of teammate Maggie Cosgrove (20:14).

Shannon Cooney was an impressive 4th in 20:47, and rounding out the top 10 for the locals were Capt. Christy Nigh (7th, 21:42), Laura Renfro (8th, 21:53), Samantha Ory (9th, 21:58) and senior Capt. Kara Busta (10th, 22:13).

Andover boys 15
Dracut 48

Led by individual race winner Peter Shaw, the Golden Warriors swept the top six places on the way to their romp over the Middies.

Shaw covered the 2.8-mile trail in 17 minutes, 39 seconds to capture a sizzling two-way battle with teammate Sayo Maldari who finished one second behind in 17:40.

There was a little space after the top two before the next four came across almost side-by-side.

Frank Perrone was 3rd in 18:14, David Easton 4th in 18:15, Alex McCargai 5th in 18:17 and Will Galebach 6th in 18:20.

Ben Ossoff also cracked the top 10 with an 18:42 clocking for 9th place.

in Methuen's early success, scoring once on a one-yard sneak and pitching a 25-yard TD pass to Ryan Baldera in the first half.

Mike Jozokos also had a career game on the ground, running for 153 yards and scoring the final Rangers' TD on a four-yard burst late in the third quarter to put the visitors ahead 26-11.

AHS sophomore Pierce, stepping in at quarterback, responded to his first starting assignment in impressive fashion, by completing 10 of 12 passes for 120 yards.

He found favorite target Buddy Farnham for six pointers in the second and third periods and displayed plenty of poise with three clutch completions during the game-winning TD march in the closing minutes.

Placekicker Ken Masse booted his second field goal of the season, a 32-yarder in the second quarter, and added his 12th and 13th PAT kicks.

AHS hammered Methuen 45-0 last fall and 34-6 two years ago. The Rangers' last win was 28-8 in 2002.

The Golden Warriors have now captured seven of the last eight meetings — and since 1981, the locals hold a 16-10 series edge over MHS.

Haverhill next

With three games left against Haverhill (2-5), Chelmsford (5-3) and Thanksgiving opponent Central Catholic (2-4) — the mathematical possibility exists for a winning season although, the final two opponents will be favored over Andover.

The Golden Warriors can creep closer to 500 with a victory against unpredictable Haverhill tomorrow night at Lovely Field (7 p.m. kickoff). It marks the third of four straight home games for AHS.

The three-pointed star was a rare sight as the Warriors' defense kept Methuen's offense from scoring. The Warriors' defense kept Methuen's offense from scoring. The Warriors' defense kept Methuen's offense from scoring.

Coach Dennis Gentry's squad played an early 1-0 lead against Dracut in the season finale, 19-12, and last week Haverhill dropped a second 14-7 and over Tewksbury before the 21-14.

The Haverhill coach said Gentry's team is a tough opponent.

Corey Gentry, Haverhill's head coach, said the Warriors' defense is a tough opponent. The Warriors' defense is a tough opponent.

Night & Day

Two years ago this month, Night & Day opened to fill a specific niche for the women of Andover and beyond. Merit Tukiainen, a native of Finland, and since 1996 a resident of Andover, committed herself to offering a rich variety of carefully selected lingerie, sleepwear, and accessories.

"From the start," says Tukiainen, "we've seen an increasing demand for professional fitting of undergarments, everything from bras and body-wear, to swimwear, slimmers, and alluring tops. Women come in all the time with gowns and dresses, seeking our advice on which products will produce the most-flattering look. We love that challenge."

What truly distinguishes Night & Day is the friendly, personal service that puts customers at their ease and gives them confidence in the staff's expertise and discretion.

That personal touch extends to Night & Day's system of customer-preference tracking, which spouses and sweethearts find indispensable when shopping for an anniversary, birthday, or holiday gift.

Remarks Tukiainen, "We find that humor helps dispel the uneasiness that men may feel when faced with our wealth of choices and the mysteries of sizing. The guys also appreciate our complimentary gift wrapping."

Since opening, Night & Day has developed a popular sub-specialty focusing on the bride-to-be: gown-enhancing foundations, wedding-night lingerie, and modern goingaway trousseau selections, such as hoodies sets with Swarovski Crystal lettering.

On November 18, from 6 to 9 pm, Night & Day will welcome customers and friends to help celebrate the second anniversary of the boutique's grand opening. Refreshments, a shopping-sprees giveaway, a sultry jazz vocalist, and live models in the store's windows will highlight the evening.

Comments Tukiainen, "We hope that this celebration reinforces the message that Andover offers not just a charming downtown, but also a vibrant, diverse shopping district that counts on residents making the choice to shop locally. When merchants and residents make a reciprocal commitment, community thrives."
